CHIEFS OWNER

LAMAR HUNT

the rest of my life."

Hunt has been a dynamic force in the game for the past quarter century and will continue to be highly recognized and respected by his peers and the administrators of the sport that is now considered No. 1 in the nation.

The current president of the AFC and a charter member of the old AFL, he has been a unique architect in the development of professional football both on and off the field since 1960.

Indicative of his stature within the game is the fact that he was the first AFL figure to be enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame. That honor was bestowed on Hunt in the summer of 1972 when, at the enshrinement ceremonies in Canton, Hunt's good friend Billy Sullivan, himself an original AFL franchise owner with the Boston Patriots, described the Chiefs owner as the "architect, designer and builder of an impossible dream."

A decade later, Hunt joined Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry in receiving the NFL Alumni Association's highest award—the Order of the Leather Helmet—for his dedication and service to pro football. In 1982, Hunt was inducted into the Texas Sports Hall of Fame.

Hunt's initial venture into organized sports was as a player. He was a reserve end at Southern Methodist University. Of his brief collegiate playing career, Hunt once quipped: "Fortunately, I didn't drop any passes because none were ever thrown at the end of the bench."

Hunt was very much involved in the merger of the AFL and the NFL in the late sixties and was one of the key designers of the Super Bowl format. In fact, it was Hunt who named the NFL World Championship Game the "Super Bowl." His Chiefs played in Super Bowl I, losing to the Green Bay Packers, and then came back in Super Bowl IV to defeat the Minnesota Vikings and capture the World Championship following the 1969 season.

Hunt continues to be a prominent pro football leader and his ventures in Kansas City involve more than just the Chiefs. First there were improvements the Chiefs funded during the construction of Arrowhead Stadium in 1972. Hunt then developed a multi-million-dollar, Kansas City area recreation park, Worlds of Fun, and four years ago opened a new theme park in the area, Oceans of Fun. He also owns Hunt Midwest Enterprises, Inc., and Mid-America Enterprises, Inc., development and real estate companies in Kansas City.

A sportsman in the true sense of the word—and jogger and tennis player—Hunt is also involved in several other sports ventures. He organized and coordinated the formation and development of World Championship Tennis and is one of the founding owners of the Chicago Bulls of the NBA.

In addition to his numerous business commitments, Hunt is active as a member of the board of directors of NFL Charities and is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Pro Football Hall of Fame. He also serves on two prominent NFL committees, finance and long range planning.

A 100 percent owner of the Kansas City Chiefs, Hunt moved his old AFL franchise—the Dallas Texans—to Mid-America in 1963 after the Texans captured the 1962 AFL championship. Hunt and his wife, Norma, divide their time between Dallas and Kansas City. Their residence is in Dallas. The Hunts have four children, Lamar Jr., Sharron, Clark and Daniel.

CHIEFS PRESIDENT

JACK STEADMAN

With a quarter of a century of pro football experience behind him, Jack Steadman begins year No. 26 as the chief executive officer of the Kansas City Chiefs. Beginning his tenth year as the president of the organization, Steadman has been an administrative leader in first the American Football League and now the NFL during his career.

Steadman's football experience began in Dallas in 1960 when owner Lamar Hunt appointed him general manager of his AFL Texans at the midway point of the league's inaugural season. Steadman has guided Hunt's football operations ever since and joined with the Chiefs owner and AFL founder last year in celebrating the team's 25th anniversary of association in professional football.

It was a proud moment for Steadman, whose ideas and leadership capabilities have helped shape much of the direction pro football has taken over the last 25 seasons. Steadman was and is an administrative innovator in the old AFL and now the NFL. Many of his marketing and administrative foundations have been duplicated throughout the league. In addition, he spearheaded the AFL team's move to Kansas City from Dallas in the early sixties and later organized and directed the Chiefs move into the Harry S. Truman Sports Complex and Arrowhead Stadium. It was Steadman who conceived the idea of Kansas City building the dual-stadium complex which houses the 78,000-seat Arrowhead and 41,000-seat Royals Stadium. He was instrumental in developing, along with Kansas City civic leaders, the public bond proposals that initiated the $43 million complex, regarded by many as one of the finest sports facilities in the nation.

Steadman's civic involvement since the team moved to Kansas City 22 years ago, has enforced his belief that a professional sports franchise success literally integrates with the community.

"The success of a franchise really depends on how well we can develop and become a part of everyday community life," he said earlier this year. "From our standpoint we have a great appreciation for the importance not only of citizen support, but civic support of what we do, if we are going to be a successful franchise on a continuing basis. We all will continue to work at that. We are extremely proud to represent Kansas City and the midwest in the NFL."

Promoted from general manager to executive vice president and general manager in 1966, Steadman was named president of the Kansas City Chiefs in 1976. He is also chairman of Hunt Midwest Enterprises, Inc. and Hunt Midwest Entertainment, Inc. These companies operate family recreation theme parks, Worlds of Fun and Oceans of Fun, plus are involved in real estate, limestone rock-mining and underground development in the greater Kansas City area. He also sits on the board of directors of Commerce Bank and serves as chairman of the NFL Front Office & Coaches Pension Plan Committee as a member of the NFL Executive Committee.

Steadman's activities and involvement in the community have reached far beyond just the volunteer support basis. He is president of the Starlight Theatre Association and immediate past chairman of the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Kansas City. In addition to these immense assignments, Steadman is a member of the Civic Council, a member of the Kansas City Area Economic Development Council, serves on the board of directors of the American Royal Association and is an advisory trustee for Research Medical Center and a trustee of the nationally-renowned Midwest Research Institute.

Jack and his wife Martha, who also is involved in a number of civic and charitable organizations in the area, live in Mission Hills, Kansas.

CHIEFS GENERAL MANAGER

JIM SCHAAF

Jim Schaaf, the Chiefs 47-year-old general manager, begins his 20th season with the team in a career that has covered virtually all areas of the club's operation. Schaaf joined the Chiefs in 1966 as director of public relations following five years association with the Kansas City Athletics baseball club. He was elevated to assistant general manager in January, 1968, and to vice president in July, 1974.

Schaaf was named to his present position in August of 1976. Following Lamar Hunt's elevation of Jack Steadman to president, Steadman instituted a reorganization of the club's front office that resulted in Schaaf's being named vice president and general manager.

In January, 1978, Steadman delegated to Schaaf full responsibility in the areas of player personnel and overall team operations. In that assignment, he works closely with head coach John Mackovic and player personnel director Les Miller and their staffs in the day-to-day responsibility of player personnel and football team areas of operation.

"Jim has all the qualities you look for in a general manager," says Steadman. "He is dedicated, aggressive, intelligent, thorough and highly motivated to succeed. In the last couple years, we have shown substantial progress in all team-related areas of operation. This has been due in no small way to Jim's dedication and leadership. He is now being recognized as one of the most outstanding general managers in pro football."

Schaaf's duties in the past included supervision of Chiefs day-to-day operations and the promotion of special events. Schaaf held several front office positions with the Athletics and was their director of publicity and promotions when he joined the Chiefs.

Schaaf was born May 22, 1938, in Erie, Pennsylvania. He attended Cathedral Preparatory School in Erie, then moved on to Notre Dame, where he earned a bachelor's degree in economics. He played three years of football for the Fighting Irish, two as a starter, at guard from 1956-58. He and his wife, Julie have two children, Jill Marie, 21, who is now a student at Notre Dame University, and James, 17, a senior at Rockhurst High School. The family lives in Overland Park.

CHIEFS HEAD COACH

JOHN MACKOVIC

With a goal to develop and achieve a consistent championship-caliber football team in the NFL, both on and off the field, John Mackovic begins his third season as the head coach of the Kansas City Chiefs.

From the first day in February of 1983 when he accepted the head coaching assignment for the Chiefs to the present, Mackovic's positive attitude and confidence and belief in what he is attempting to accomplish have established a solid foundation for this original AFL franchise. On the field, his team has made a remarkable turnaround in the two years he has been the head coach. Quite possibly, even more important, are the character ideals this 41-year old football coach has generated throughout the community and within the team and organization.

In this brief two-year period, Mackovic's Chiefs have shown steady improvement in the NFL's most difficult division, the AFC West, which has produced three of the AFC's five playoff teams in both of his seasons as the Chiefs head coach. When he came to Kansas City, the Chiefs had gone 11 years without a playoff position and their offense ranked a disappointing 25th in the NFL following the 1982 strike-shortened season.

"Confidence and belief. Play with confidence and believe that we will make things happen. I think what we did at the end of this past season will help, because we did finish with some good feelings."

Mackovic immediately tackled the problems at hand, first declaring his team would play with a "No. 1 quarterback" and then installing a brand new, pass-oriented offensive attack. He selected veteran Bill Kenney as his top quarterback and, in that first year, drafted Penn State's national championship leader Todd Blackledge to supplement the position he called "the most important on a football team." The renovation of the Chiefs offense during that '83 season produced the third best passing attack in the NFL as the Chiefs vaulted to the ninth position in total offense and set numerous team records along the way.

It was a remarkable transition for a Chiefs offense that had floundered for a number of years while a major portion of the draft selections featured defensive players. The team's 6-10 finish that season was a disappointment in terms of wins and losses, yet five of the 10 defeats were measured by three points or less while a sixth was only by five points.

The watchwords for 1984 from Mackovic were consistency and better physical durability and the Chiefs responded by improving to an 8-8 record that moved them up one notch from fifth place to fourth place in the AFC Western Division. Half of the eight losses were by two points or less last season. The two biggest boasts for the team were the facts that the Chiefs earned a split with every division opponent excepting the Los Angeles Raiders and executed a whirlwind finish to the season by recording three consecutive victories over Denver, Seattle and San Diego to measure a .500 season.

"Based upon how things have moved and what we have gone through, I'm very pleased with the way we completed our second season. I do feel it is a significant foundation for not only 1985, but for many years to come."

With the offense now at a point where it can match the best of teams in the NFL and the defense providing an outstanding, dominating force, steady improvement and an ability to be considered a playoff threat will mark the season-opening watchwords for Mackovic's Chiefs in this '85 campaign. In their bid to become a playoff contender, the Chiefs are facing the most difficult schedule in the NFL that includes away games against Super Bowl XIX teams San Francisco and Miami plus the usual donnybrooks in the AFC West.

Tough assignments have been a trademark of Mackovic's coaching career that began in 1965 as a graduate assistant at Miami of Ohio.

In 1978 Mackovic assumed the head coaching duties of a sagging program at Wake Forest, his alma mater. The Deacons had won only 13 games in the previous six years. Mackovic's team finished 1-10 in that '78 season. Then, the next season, he coached the Deacons to an 8-3 record, a spot in the national rankings for the first time in the school's history and earned an invitation to the Tangerine Bowl. That bowl appearance marked the first post-season game for the Deacons since 1949.

"It had nothing to do with an individual player. It was the team, the way the team played, the way the team worked together. The greatest gain we had in 1984 was the development and emergence of a real team. Whether it was good or bad, at least they had the concept of team."

In 1980, Mackovic's Wake Forest team compiled a 5-6 record, losing four of those games by a combined total of seven points. His three-year head coaching record at Wake Forest was 14-20, but even more important, he earned the reputation of producing a wide-open, multiple offensive attack and building solid foundations for sagging programs.

He gave up the head coaching position to join Tom Landry's staff with the Dallas Cowboys in 1981 and for two years was the NFL team's quarterback coach. In both seasons, the Cowboys earned playoff berths and during those years he helped develop Danny White into a Pro Bowl quarterback. His success at both Wake Forest and Dallas provided the rapid climb to an NFL head coaching position.

Mackovic began his coaching career after receiving his B.A. degree in Spanish from Wake Forest in 1965. He entered graduate school at Miami of Ohio and served as a graduate assistant under Bo Schembechler, earning a master's degree in secondary education from Miami in 1966. He returned to his prep alma mater, Barberton High School (Barberton, Ohio) in 1966 as an assistant coach in charge of the offensive backfield. The following year he was commissioned in the Army, reaching the rank of first lieutenant and coaching West Point's freshman team prior to his March 1969 discharge. That same year, he began a two-year stint as offensive coordinator at San Jose State. He then returned to West Point in 1971 and spent two years as Army's offensive backfield coach. In 1973, he joined Jim Young's staff at Arizona as offensive coordinator. He then followed Young to Purdue in 1977 to again handle the offense.

"It's taken a good part of two years. We've all been working on it very hard. We are very interested in how our players and coaches get along and work together. I think everyone now feels good about working together and pulling in the same direction. We've spent a lot of time on this development, a team development."

As a collegian at Wake Forest, Mackovic enjoyed a successful career as the Deacons quarterback from 1962-64. He was the school's sixth-leading all-time passer, compiling 1,950 yards in three seasons. As a senior, he led the ACC in total offense, was a second-team All-ACC selection and a first-team All-ACC Academic honoree. He was voted the team's most inspirational player in his senior season. He was a teammate and a roommate of the late Brian Piccolo during his collegiate playing days.

An excellent speaker and motivator, Mackovic is a goal oriented individual who believes in setting a direction for himself and his team. He asks his players to make year around commitments to the community as well as the team. His enthusiasm and positive outlook has been an infectious commodity not only around the team, but within the Kansas City community. This past off-season, Mackovic was co-chairman of a March of Dimes benefit dinner that proved to be one of the most successful fund-raisers in the area, generating more than $100,000 in proceeds to help fight birth defects. An avid golfer who spends much of his off-season time on the courses around Kansas City, Mackovic serves on the board of directors, Greater Kansas City Area Chapter, March of Dimes. He also is active with the Kansas and Missouri Special Olympics. Mackovic's wife, Arlene, is an active volunteer with the March of Dimes and also is a member of the chapter's board of directors. The family includes two children, Aimee, 10 years, and John, 8 years. They reside in Mission, Kansas.

CHIEFS COACHING STAFF

DAVE BRAZIL, Defensive Assistant

Dave Brazil is in his first full year with the Chiefs after joining John Mackovic's staff early in the 1984 season.

His role with the Chiefs involves both on-the-field and off-the-field activities, with a bulk of his time concentrated in the defensive quality control area. That includes evaluating the Chiefs defensive tendencies throughout the season and working extensively in advance scouting of opponents.

Brazil came to Kansas City after spending three years as defensive coordinator at Kent State University. That marked the fifth college at which he had been either the offensive or defensive coordinator. He began in the collegiate ranks in 1968 at Holy Cross, then moved to Tulsa in 1970 and Eastern Michigan in 1972. Brazil returned to his native city of Detroit in 1975, becoming defensive coordinator of the Detroit Wheel of the brand new World Football League. He then assumed the same duties with the WFL's Chicago Fire the following season. After the '76 campaign, he returned to the collegiate ranks as defensive coordinator at Boston College in 1978, then on to Kent State in '80.

The 49-year-old Brazil began his coaching career on the high school level, spending 10 years as a prep head coach in Michigan, including eight consecutive seasons without losing more than two games.

A native of Detroit, Brazil attended the University of Detroit High School, then attended college at the University of Detroit. Full name: David Lloyd Brazil. Wife: Bridget. Children: Kathleen (25), Mary Ann (24), Michael (23), Daniel (22), Thomas (20) and Patrick (15).

WALT COREY, Defensive Line

For 18 of the Chiefs 25 years as a professional football club, Walt Corey has been with the team as either a coach or a player. The defensive line coach begins his 12th season as a Chiefs assistant in 1985, continuing the longtime relationship.

The first appointee on John Mackovic's staff in 1983, Corey possesses a wealth of defensive knowledge, having coached all phases of the defense in the professional ranks and having played as a linebacker for the Dallas Texans and Chiefs from 1960 through 1966.

This will be his third consecutive year as the defensive line coach and he boasts one of the NFL's top three-man fronts in starters Art Still, Mike Bell and Bill Maas, all former No. 1 draft choices. One of two coaches retained by Mackovic in '83, he spent two previous terms with the Chiefs as an assistant, first with Hank Stram as the defensive line coach from 1971-74 and then as the defensive line and defensive back coach for Marv Levy from 1978-82.

Corey was an outstanding football player at the University of Miami before joining the original Dallas Texans in the first year of the American Football League in 1960. He was a starting linebacker in the Texans 1962 AFL championship game and played for the Chiefs in Super Bowl I following the 1966 season.

He entered the collegiate coaching ranks in 1967 before joining Stram's coaching staff in 1971. In between his Chiefs coaching stints, Corey was the linebacker coach for the Cleveland Browns from 1975-77.

The 47-year-old Corey is a native of Latrobe, Pa., and attended high school at Derry (Pa.) H.S. Full name: Walter M. Corey. Wife: Jane. Children: Carla (18), Mark (17).

DAN DANIEL, Inside Linebackers

The man who calls the Chiefs defensive plays from the press box is Clarence "Dan" Daniel, who enters his third season as the inside linebackers coach.

He joined the Chiefs in 1983 after a five-year coaching reign in the CFL with the Edmonton Eskimos and the Calgary Stampeders, both as defensive coordinator. He was recognized in the CFL as one of the most innovative defensive coaches in the league. While at Edmonton (1978-81), Daniel's defense led the Eskimos to four consecutive Grey Cup titles and as the defensive coordinator at Calgary, the Stampeders jumped from fifth place in '81 to second place and a playoff berth in '82 with a devastating defense.

Daniel carries 16 years of experience as an assistant coach in the collegiate ranks, coming from five different institutions and starting with the University of Wyoming in 1962. He was the defensive coordinator at MacAlester College (Minn.), Colorado State and the University of Houston and an assistant coach at the U.S. Naval Academy before heading for the two CFL coaching assignments.

Daniel also coached for seven years on the high school level following his graduation from Huron College in his native Huron, South Dakota.

The 52-year-old Daniel attended Huron High School. Full name: Clarence A. "Dan" Daniel. Wife: Wendy. Children: Carly (11), Chelsey (3); four children from previous marriage: Dale (29), Denise (28), Dirk (25), Darcí (19).

MARTY GALBRAITH, Offensive Line

The newest addition to John Mackovic's coaching staff is Marty Galbraith, who takes over as the offensive line coach in 1985. Galbraith, who joins the Chiefs from the Tampa Bay Bandits of the USFL, replaces Rod Humenuik, who has become the assistant head coach with the New England Patriots.

Galbraith served as offensive line coach under Mackovic at Wake Forest University from 1978-80. Their first association came in 1977, when both were assistant coaches on Jim Young's staff at Purdue, Mackovic as offensive coordinator and Galbraith as receivers coach. When Mackovic became head coach at Wake Forest in '78, he hired Galbraith for his offensive line. When Mackovic left to join the Dallas Cowboys in 1981, Galbraith stayed at Wake Forest, but as the defensive backs coach under Al Groh. After five years at WFU, Galbraith joined the Bandits as offensive line coach in 1983. He was in that position two years before coming to Kansas City and undertaking his first NFL job.

The move to Kansas City is a return to the Midwest for Galbraith, who is a native of Joplin, Mo., and graduated from Joplin High School in 1968. He attended the University of Arkansas for one year, then returned to Joplin and played football three years at Missouri Southern State College. He captained Missouri Southern's 1972 NAIA Championship team.

Galbraith's first coaching venture came in '73 as a graduate assistant at Northwest Missouri State, coaching the defensive backs. He returned to Joplin in '74, serving as offensive line coach at Joplin Memorial H.S. for three years. In his final year, he helped Joplin to the Missouri State 3A football championship. He then moved on to Purdue in '77.

The 35-year-old Galbraith earned his Master's Degree in physical education from NWMS in 1974. Full name: Martin Hale Galbraith. Wife: Mary. Children: Stephen (6).

DOUG GRABER, Defensive Backs

Doug Graber begins his third year as a Chiefs assistant coach and his second season as sole tutor of the defensive backs. He shared that role with Bud Carson during his first year in Kansas City, in addition to being in charge of defensive quality control, then took over the secondary upon Carson's departure in '84.

Grabber joined the Chiefs staff after completing a most successful campaign as the Montana State Bobcats head coach in 1982. Graber guided Montana State from seventh place in the Big Sky Conference in 1981 to a tie for the conference crown in '82 with a 6-5 overall mark and a 5-2 league record.

A football and golf player at Wayne State University, Graber earned a master's degree in education at Northern Michigan. His overall coaching career started in his native Detroit at St. Francis Cabrini High School.

Grabber then entered the collegiate coaching ranks in 1969, taking over the defensive coordinating at Michigan Tech. He developed the league's top defense all three years at Tech and moved on to Eastern Michigan as the defensive coordinator from 1972-75. In 1976, Graber was hired by Dave McClain at Ball State as the defensive backfield coach and recruiting coordinator. He moved with McClain to Wisconsin in 1978 as the Badgers defensive backfield coach and spent four years there developing one of the Big Ten's top secondaries. He also was the academic and recruiting coordinator at Wisconsin.

The 41-year-old Graber attended St. Agatha High School in Detroit. Full name: Douglas Gary Graber. Wife: Faye. Children: Joe (10), J.J. (8).

J.D. HELM, Offensive Assistant

J.D. Helm has been with the Chiefs organization for the past decade, beginning his 11th season with the team and fourth as an assistant coach. Helm's duties as an offensive assistant include offensive evaluation and advance scouting in addition to on-the-field tutoring.

After spending seven years on the Chiefs player personnel staff both as a scout and as the assistant director of player personnel, Helm joined the Chiefs coaching staff in 1982 under Marv Levy as offensive backs coach. He was one of two coaches from that staff retained by John Mackovic in 1983.

Mackovic first became associated with Helm when they coached against each other in the WAC, Helm as an assistant at Brigham Young University and Mackovic as an assistant at Arizona.

A football and track standout at the University of Kansas, Helm has coached on the high school, college and professional levels in addition to owning a multitude of experience in personnel scouting. He began his coaching career at his alma mater, Kansas, as a graduate assistant and then moved on to an assistant coaching and teaching position at Shawnee Mission East High School in suburban Kansas City.

Helm moved into college coaching in 1968 at BYU and, for seven seasons, was instrumental in helping develop the Cougars wide open and nationally famous offensive attack. During his stint with BYU, Helm coached all phases of the offense.

A native of Marceline (Mo.), the 44-year-old Helm attended El Dorado Springs (Mo.) High School and was recognized as one of the state's outstanding football players. Full name: J.D. Helm. Wife: Elizabeth. Children: Heather (15), Lisa (12), Erin (10), Adam (8).

C.T. HEWGLEY, Linemen/Strength & Cond.

C.T. Hewgley serves a dual role in his capacity as a Chiefs assistant coach, his first assignment in professional football.

Entering his third-year with the Chiefs, Hewgley coordinates the team's strength and conditioning program and, in addition, works with offensive line coach Marty Galbraith and defensive line coach Walt Corey. Prior to his first season, Hewgley helped organize the final stages of construction of the Chiefs new weight and conditioning area at Arrowhead.

A combat veteran of World War II, Korea and Vietnam, Hewgley did not begin his coaching career until the age of 43, following two stints in the U.S. Army. He spent 17 years in the service, making it a career until retiring in 1968 and then starting his tenure as a football coach.

A graduate of the University of Wyoming, where he was an All-America tackle in 1950, Hewgley began his coaching career as the freshman coach and recruiting coordinator at Miami (Fla.) from 1968-70. He returned to his alma mater as the line coach from 1971-73 and then became the head coach at the University of Nebraska-Omaha in 1974.

Hewgley then spent seven years as an assistant coach under Darryl Rogers at Arizona State and Michigan State.

A native of Nashville, Tenn., the 60-year-old Hewgley attended East Nashville High School. Full name: C.T. Hewgley. Wife: Julia.

PETE McCULLEY, Quarterbacks

Playing no small role in the rapid rise of the Chiefs passing game the past two years, Pete McCulley begins his third season as the team's quarterback coach.

Regarded as one of pro football's best teaching technicians of quarterbacks, McCulley has been instrumental in the development of Bill Kenney and Todd Blackledge. In his first year in Kansas City, he helped Kenney improve from a part-time starter to a 4,000-yard-plus passer and Pro Bowl quarterback.

The head coach of the San Francisco 49ers for nine games during the 1978 season, McCulley has been instrumental in organizing the passing attacks of the New York Jets, Washington Redskins and the then-Baltimore Colts in the 10 seasons prior to joining the Chiefs. He came to Kansas City from New York, where he served as the Jets receivers coach in 1979, '81 and '82 and worked with the quarterbacks in '80. His first two stops in the NFL were assistant assignments with the Colts for four seasons (1973-76) and the Redskins for one season (1977). The passing game was a specific assignment in each case, also.

In addition to his 11 years in NFL coaching, McCulley has 14 years of experience in the collegiate coaching ranks, beginning with Stephen F. Austin State College in 1959. He spent one year there, three years on the University of Houston staff, seven years with Baylor University and three years with the U.S. Naval Academy.

A native of Franklin County, Miss., the 53-year-old McCulley was an all-Conference quarterback at Louisiana Tech, graduating in 1956. He attended Istrouma High School in Baton Rouge, La. Full name: Pete McCulley. Wife: Nettie Jean. Children: Kit (28), Kim (27).

WILLIE PEETE, Offensive Backs

In the third year of his first NFL coaching assignment, Willie Peete tutors the Chiefs running backs.

He joined the Chiefs in 1983, reuniting him with John Mackovic, who served on the same staff as Peete at the University of Arizona in the early 1970's. The move ended a long association for Peete with Arizona.

Arizona was more than a coaching position for Peete. He spent 12 years there as an assistant coach for the Wildcats. Peete was born and raised in nearby Mesa, Ariz., matriculated to the University of Arizona and became a two-sport standout in football, as a wide receiver, and baseball, in his senior year.

The Chiefs assignment marked just the second move for Peete in his coaching career. He started his coaching duties at the Tucson campus as a graduate assistant while finishing studies for his B.S. degree in physical education. He returned to his hometown of Mesa in 1963 and was an assistant coach at Mesa H.S. in football and track, then moved to a new high school, Westwood, where he served as an assistant in football and the junior varsity basketball coach for seven years. During that time, Peete earned his Master's degree in secondary education from Arizona State. He rejoined the Arizona staff as a full-time assistant coach, working for four different head coaches. In that span, he coached outside linebackers, receivers, tackles and tight ends and running backs, plus helped coordinate recruiting.

The 48-year-old Peete and wife Edna have two sons, 22-year-old Willie III (Skip), who is a senior wide receiver at the University of Kansas, and 19-year-old Rodney, who is a second-year quarterback at Southern California.

JIM VECHIARELLA, Out. Linebackers/Special Teams

Responsible for two different areas of the team, Jim Vechiarella is in his third season on the Chiefs staff in charge of the outside linebackers and the special teams.

It marks his fifth year in the NFL and is the 27th of his coaching career, which also includes high school, college and the World Football League.

Prior to joining the Chiefs staff in '83, Vechiarella spent two seasons with the Los Angeles Rams, first coaching the special teams in 1981 and then handling the defensive secondary in '82.

Defense has been Vechiarella's specialty in coaching throughout his career since he graduated as a four-year defensive standout for Youngstown State University in 1958. He began coaching in high school, spending a combined six years at two Ohio prep schools—Poland and Rayen, his alma mater in Youngstown.

He joined the Youngstown State coaching staff after that and worked 11 years as an assistant, most of that time as the defensive coordinator.

In 1975, Vechiarella moved into the brand new WFL as a defensive line coach with Charlotte and, when the league folded, he moved back into the college ranks as the defensive coordinator at Southern Illinois. He spent two years at Southern Illinois before joining Vince Gibson's staff at Tulane, handling the defensive coordinating for the Green Wave from 1978-80.

RICHARD WILLIAMSON, Receivers

Having already helped develop one of the most productive wide receiving crews in the NFL, Richard Williamson is in his third season as the Chiefs receivers coach. He joined John Mackovic's staff in 1983 and has been instrumental in changing the offense into a pass-oriented attack.

Upon moving to Kansas City in '83, it marked a return to coaching for Williamson, who had left the profession for two years. He had spent 18 years in the collegiate coaching ranks, both as a head coach and as an assistant, before entering private business in 1981 and then accepting the position as executive director of the prestigious Bluebonnet Bowl in Houston, Texas.

The 44-year-old Williamson was head coach at Memphis State from 1975-80, compiling a 31-35 record in those six campaigns with an independent football school that annually plays one of the toughest schedules in the NCAA. He guided the Tigers to consecutive 7-4 records in his first two seasons and was named Southern Independent Coach of the Year in 1976. He twice was selected to coach in the Blue-Gray All-Star Game (1976 and 1977).

Williamson worked as an assistant coach under two college football coaching legends—the late Paul "Bear" Bryant at Alabama and Frank Broyles at Arkansas. He played for Bryant at Alabama, earning All-Southeastern Conference honors as a wide receiver and has the distinction of being the individual who caught sophomore Joe Namath's first collegiate touchdown pass in 1962.

Under Bryant, Williamson coached the Tide's wide receivers in 1963-67, then returned to Alabama to take over the defensive end coaching position in 1970 and '71. In between, he joined Broyles' Arkansas coaching staff to coach the receivers in 1968 and '69, then returned again to Arkansas to handle the offensive backs from 1972-74. It was in 1975 when he was named the Memphis State head coach.

A native of Fort Deposit, Ala., Williamson attended Lowndes County High School in Fort Deposit. Full name: Richard Williamson. Wife: Norma. Children: Rich (20), Caroline (18).

JON PHILLIPS, Equipment Coordinator

The multi-dutied Jon Phillips is a vital part of John Mackovic's staff as he begins his third year with the Chiefs.

In addition to the time-consuming chore of coordinating the team's equipment, Phillips also is in charge of the Chiefs travel arrangements and training camp plans.

A graduate of Syracuse University, the 45-year-old Phillips had been associated with college athletics for 13 years as the equipment manager at Syracuse and Michigan State University before joining the Chiefs staff. He spent 10 years at his alma mater, Syracuse University in New York. Phillips began working in college athletics when he graduated from Syracuse.

In 1980, Phillips was selected equipment manager of the year by the Athletic Equipment Managers Association and served as the association's Executive Director.

Phillips' assistant is Jeff Hiller, who also joined the Chiefs staff in '83. A native of Iowa, Hiller spent four years as a student equipment manager at Arizona State University before coming to Kansas City.

DAVE KENDALL, Trainer

Dave Kendall is in his second season as the Chiefs trainer after serving as the assistant trainer under Wayne Rudy for nine years.

Upon Rudy's retirement in 1984, Kendall was named to the top post, becoming just the second trainer in the history of the franchise.

The 34-year-old Kendall served as assistant trainer at Pittsburg State in Pittsburg, Kansas before joining the Chiefs staff in 1975. He graduated from Pittsburg State with a degree in physical education.

A graduate of Wyandotte High School in Kansas City, Kendall is a member of the National Athletic Trainers Association. Dave and his wife, Jacki, live in Lee's Summit and have a three-year-old daughter, Kristen.

Kendall's assistant is Bud Epps, who is in his second season with the Chiefs. The 31-year-old Epps was an assistant trainer at the University of Missouri for eight years before moving to Kansas City.

PLAYER PERSONNEL STAFF

LES MILLER, Director of Player Personnel

Playing a major role in the personnel make-up of the Chiefs squad, Les Miller is in his 11th season as the team's director of player personnel.

Miller is responsible for the acquisition of talent through the NFL's college draft, free agency and waivers. All but two of the players on the Chiefs current roster have joined the club since Miller became head of the scouting department in 1975. He came to Kansas City after serving three seasons under current Washington Redskins general manager Bobby Beathard on the Miami Dolphins scouting staff.

The 47-year-old Miller is a native of Bernice, Oklahoma. He attended Oklahoma State University, then graduated from Kansas State College at Pittsburg with an education degree in 1958. For the next 13 years, he coached at the high school and college level. He was the head football, basketball and baseball coach at Afton (Okla.) High School from 1958-60 and then coached baseball and football at two Tulsa high schools before accepting a position in private business.

Miller returned to coaching in 1967 as head football coach at Joplin (Mo.) High School. After two seasons, he was named an assistant coach at Brigham Young University in charge of offensive backs until the Dolphins named him to their scouting staff in 1972.

An avid baseball fan, Miller spent two seasons, 1954-55, as a third baseman and outfielder in the New York Yankees farm system.

Les and his wife Joyce live in Overland Park and have four children: Mike 29, Debbie, 27, Marty 16, and Matt, 13.

BOBBY GILL, Assistant Director of Player Personnel

After 10 years as a Chiefs talent scout, Bobby Gill was elevated to the post of assistant director of player personnel under Les Miller during this past off-season. A veteran coach in the collegiate ranks, Gill joined the Chiefs staff in 1975.

Gill's coaching career began in 1958 at Ouachita Baptist University in Arkadelphia, Ark. He then moved to Houston, where he coached under Bill Yeoman from 1962-66. In 1967, he was named offensive coordinator at the University of Tulsa. After two seasons there, he became the offensive coordinator at New Mexico State in 1969 and remained with the Aggies through the '71 campaign. Gill then coached at Texas El Paso in 1972-73, giving him 16 collegiate years.

In 1974, Gill moved into the professional ranks by joining the Detroit Wheel of the brand new World Football League. He spent just one year in Detroit before entering the NFL for the first time with the Chiefs.

The 47-year-old Gill attended Baylor University in his hometown of Waco, Texas. He and wife Barbara, who is the women's basketball coach at Johnson County Community College, live in Overland Park.

GREG MOHNS, Coordinator of College Scouting

After two years as a talent scout for the Chiefs, Greg Mohns has been named the Coordinator of College Scouting under Les Miller.

Mohns joined Miller's staff in July of 1983, following a one-year stint as recruiting coordinator and defensive line coach at Nevada-Las Vegas. Prior to that, he had spent nine years as an assistant coach on the college level, plus two years as head coach at Ventura (Calif.) Junior College.

At Ventura, Mohns compiled a 15-3-2 record, led his team to Bowl games both years and was named the league's Coach-of-the-Year in 1980. His assistant positions were at Oklahoma State, from 1972-76 under Jim Stanley, and at Arizona State, from 1977-80 under Frank Kush, serving as defensive line coach and recruiting coordinator at both schools.

The 35-year-old Mohns is a native of Pasadena, Calif., but grew up in the Kansas City area and attended Lee's Summit H.S. His collegiate playing career as an offensive tackle began at Bradley University and ended at Baker University in Baldwin City, Kan. Mohns, who has a four-year-old son, Jason, earned his B.S. from Baker in 1972 and his Master's from Oklahoma State in '75.

OTIS TAYLOR, Talent Scout

The all-time leading receiver in Chiefs' history, Otis Taylor begins his eighth year on the player personnel staff.

Taylor's outstanding play at wide receiver in the 1960s and 70s helped the Chiefs get into two NFL Super Bowls. It was his 46-yard touchdown reception that broke open the Chiefs Super Bowl IV victory over Minnesota following the 1969 season and gave Kansas City its only World Championship. His lifetime 410 receptions, 7,306 yards receiving and 60 touchdowns all still stand as club records.

The 42-year-old Taylor was Kansas City's fourth-round draft choice in 1965 from Prairie View. The former All-America was the Chiefs leading receiver in five of his 10 seasons. He was selected to play in the first three AFC-NFC Pro Bowl Games.

In 1982, Taylor received the distinguished honor of being inducted into the Chiefs Hall of Fame. He currently resides in Kansas City.

CHUCK LESTER, Talent Scout

Chuck Lester begins the second season as an NFL scout with the Chiefs after compiling an eight-year background in intercollegiate football.

Spending all of his eight previous years in the Big Eight Conference, Lester began his coaching tenure as a graduate assistant at Oklahoma in 1976. After four years, he was named linebacker coach at Iowa State, where he stayed two seasons. He then returned to Oklahoma, serving as an administrative assistant to Barry Switzer for the '82 and '83 seasons, plus was in charge of the offensive and defensive quality control in

'83. Lester joined the Chiefs staff in July of 1984.

A native of Chicago, Ill., Lester was a two-year letterman in football, track and wrestling at Tinley Park (Ill.) H.S. He then walked on as a linebacker at Oklahoma.

Lester earned a B.S. in Physical Education from Oklahoma in 1980 and is just three hours short of his Master's Degree in Exercise Physiology.

CHUCK COOK, Talent Scout

Entering his second year with the Chiefs, Chuck Cook joined Les Miller's staff in July of 1984 as a talent scout. It marks his first position in the NFL.

A native of Andalusia, Ala., Cook came to Kansas City after serving two years as an offensive assistant coach with the Arizona Wranglers of the USFL. His first coaching position was as a graduate assistant at the University of Wyoming in 1980.

Cook was a football star at Southern Mississippi, where he began his playing career as a wide receiver and finished as a defensive back in '80. His outstanding collegiate career earned him a tryout with the New York Giants in 1980 and with the Jets in '81.

He attended Oak Grove H.S. in Hattiesburg, Miss., where he was a football, basketball, baseball and track standout. Married the former Lori Rhoads this past June.

Birthplace: Dalton, Georgia
Residence: Lee's Summit, Missouri

Has established himself as one of the premier punters in the game, claiming the NFL punting title as a second-year pro in '84 . . . Averaged 44.9 yards per punt, winning a tight race over Miami's Reggie Roby and Indianapolis' Rohn Stark (both 44.7) . . . Finished second behind Roby in net punting with a 37.5 average . . . His impressive averages came on 98 punts, tying Stark for the league lead and nearly doubling Roby's number of attempts (51) . . . Was edged by Roby in balloting for the AFC Pro Bowl punter, finishing as the first alternate . . . His 98 punts and 4,397 punting yards set new Chiefs records, breaking his own mark of 93 punts from 1983 and surpassing Bob Grupp's 1979 yardage total of 3,883 yards . . . His 44.9 average stands as a tie for the fourth-best season mark in team history behind Jerrel Wilson performances . . . Compiled single-game averages of 45.0 or better in 10 of the 16 games last year and 40.0 or better in all but one . . . That one was Tampa Bay, a game in which two of his five punts were nailed inside the 10-yard line and he ended with a 36.4 average . . . Best game of his career came at the L.A. Raiders when he posted a 51.0 average on eight punts, including a career-most five kicks of 50 yards or more . . . Boomed 31 punts of 50 yards or more in '84, including five of 60 yards or more, with a long of 63 vs. San Diego (one yard shy of career long) . . . Nine punts at Denver and vs. Houston tied career single-game highs . . . In just two years, he ranks third on the Chiefs all-time charts for number of punts with 191, only 23 away from Grupp (214) for second place behind Wilson (1,018) . . . Has a two-year average of 42.4 . . . Brilliant 1984 season stifled doubts of an inconsistent rookie campaign . . . Finished the '83 year with a 39.9 punting average, which ranked 10th in the AFC, and with a 32.6 net average, which ranked 14th in the conference . . . His 93 punts surpassed Grupp's 1979 record of 89 and were the most in the AFC and second-most in the NFL . . . Displayed a powerful leg at times, registering 18 punts over 50 yards and four punts of 60 yards or more . . . Landed 21 punts inside the opponent's 20-yard line and had just six touchbacks, which was the best ratio in the AFC and tied for fourth-best in the NFL . . . Best performance came at Denver, when he compiled a 48.4 average on seven punts, including three over 50 yards . . . Longest punt of his career came as a rookie, a 64-yarder vs. Buffalo that ranked as the team's longest since a 74-yarder by Grupp in '79 . . . First punter taken in the 1983 draft . . . Led the nation in net punting with a 42.1 average as a senior at Vanderbilt . . . Was a consensus first-team All-America punter after compiling a 45.8 average as a senior, giving him a 43.9 career average . . . Broke Vanderbilt's single-game punting record with a 53.1 average vs. North Carolina his senior year . . . Majored in sociology . . . Could expand his duties in his second NFL season after seeing limited action on the offensive line as a rookie last year . . . Played in all 16 games in '84, but most of his action came on kicking teams . . . Most lengthy game experience last year came at Seattle the 10th week of the season when he played most of the second half at left guard . . . Can play both the guard and tackle positions . . . Played mostly as a tackle while lettering four years at Michigan State prior to becoming the Chiefs ninth-round draft selection in '84 . . . Was the starting left tackle as a senior in 1983 and was voted winner of the Gerald R. Ford Award as the Spartans' outstanding lineman . . . Began collegiate career as a tight end and caught one pass as a freshman in 1980 . . . Attended Elmhurst H.S. in Fort Wayne, Indiana . . . Has developed into one of the team's most valuable reserve offensive linemen during his 1½ years in Kansas City . . . Saw substantial action last year at both right tackle and right guard . . . Alternated with Jim Rourke the first half of the season when starting right tackle David Lutz injured a knee in the opener at Pittsburgh and missed nine weeks . . . Filled in some for starting right guard Tom Condon the second half of the season, including all but the first offensive series against his former New York Giants teammates . . . Played in the first 14 games before missing the final two contests because of the mumps . . . The cohesiveness he provided to the line throughout the year was one reason the Chiefs allowed just 33 sacks in 626 pass plays for a 1:19 ratio, which was the best in team history and fourth-best in NFL in '84 . . . It was his first full season with the Chiefs after signing with the club at the midway point of the '83 season . . . Quickly proved his worth to the team, finishing the season by starting the final four contests at left tackle in place of the injured Matt Herkenhoff . . . The mid-season need for another offensive lineman arose when Condon was placed on injured reserve following the eighth game . . . Had been released by the New York Giants earlier in the '83 season . . . After not playing in his first game as a Chief, he played in short-yardage situations instead of a tight end the next week vs. the Raiders when Willie Scott was ailing . . . Did not play the following week, but saw action in the final five contests for a total of six games in '83 . . . First pro start came at Seattle when Herkenhoff was injured . . . Was a 10th-round draft choice of the Giants in 1982 and made the squad, playing in one of the nine games that year . . . Was a starting tackle for John Mackovic at Wake Forest . . . Won All-ACC honors as a senior in '81 . . . Attended Massapequa H.S. in Long Island, winning letters in football, basketball and track . . . Is regarded as one of the most intimidating pass rushers in the NFL following back-to-back seasons in which he has ranked among the league sack leaders and been voted as an alternate to the AFC Pro Bowl team . . . Put together his best season as a pro in '84 despite being limited the second half of the year due to a nagging knee injury . . . Recorded a career-most 13½ sacks, all coming in the first 12 games . . . Ranked third in the NFL at that time, but finished in eighth place in the AFC and tied for 11th in the NFL . . . Saw very limited action in the final five games of the season and was placed on injured reserve for the finale after undergoing arthroscopic surgery to repair cartilage damage in his right knee . . . First knee problem came Week Four at Denver, but he successfully played injured until the final weeks . . . Started 14 games and played in 15 . . . First non-start came Week 13 against the New York Giants and broke a streak of 28 consecutive games that he had started . . . Shot quickly to near the top of the league's sacks chart by making a season-high three sacks vs. Cincinnati the second week of the campaign . . . Was named AFC Defensive-Player-of-the-Week by the league office for his performance in that game against Bengals All-Pro tackle Anthony Munoz . . . Netted 10 sacks by the season's midway point, matching his previous full season career-best set a year earlier . . . His 13½ sacks stand as the third best single-season total in Chiefs history (since individual sacks began being recorded in 1973), next to Art Still's 14½ total in '80 and '84 . . . Combines with Still and NT Bill Maas, all former No. 1 draft choices, to give the Chiefs possibly the best defensive line in the NFL . . . Helped the defense set a Chiefs record with 50 sacks on the season, breaking the old mark of 48 set during the team's Super Bowl Championship year of 1969 . . . Also contributed 1½ sacks during a team record 11-sack assault vs. Cleveland on Week Five, a total which tied for second-most in a single game in NFL history . . . Totaled 62 tackles in '84 and led the team with two fumble recoveries . . . First recovery came in the opener at Pittsburgh and led to a touchdown in a 37-27 triumph and the second came in the first of two wins over San Diego . . . Top tackling effort was 10 vs. Tampa Bay . . . Voted as second alternate at defensive end to the AFC Pro Bowl team . . . Career log reads 66 games, 57 starts, 284 total tackles, 35½ sacks and five fumble recoveries . . . Will officially be in his sixth NFL season in '85, because he wasn't credited with an official season in '80 due to playing in just two games before undergoing surgery to repair a bicep muscle in the shoulder area which separated from the bone as he was rushing the passer versus Seattle . . . The Chiefs No. 1 draft choice in '79 and the second pick overall . . . Appeared in 11 games as a rookie, missing five at midseason due to a strained knee . . . Broke into the starting lineup for the final four games and finished with 35 tackles and 5½ sacks . . . After missing the '80 campaign, he enjoyed a healthy '81 season and started all 16 games . . . Was the Chiefs third-leading tackler with 77 and second in sacks with five, helping the Chiefs defense rank first in the AFC against the run . . . Was injured throughout the strike-shortened '82 season, missing three full games and parts of three others . . . Played in six contests that year, starting five, and finished with 27 tackles . . . His 1983 performance was his career's best until he bettered it in '84 . . . Started all 16 games and led the Chiefs with 10 sacks, ranking seventh in the conference . . . Was selected as the first alternate at DE for the AFC Pro Bowl squad . . . Best sack output was three vs. Cincinnati . . . Finished fifth on the team with 75 tackles, topped by an 11-tackle effort in an overtime win over Houston . . . At Colorado State, he had a brilliant four-year career, but knee surgery at the end of his senior season kept him from playing in any post-season all-star games . . . Was a first-team All-America selection by The Sporting News and was named to the second team by AP and UPI

... Unanimous all-Western Athletic Conference choice his final two seasons ... Racked up 36 sacks during his four years at CSU ... His twin brother, Mark, has played defensive end for several NFL teams, most recently with the Colts ... The Bell twins and Gary Spani have conducted a football camp in Wichita during several off-seasons ... Attended Bishop Carroll H.S. in Wichita, where he began playing football his junior year ... Has gained valuable experience in his first two seasons as an NFL quarterback and has proven his ability to direct a high-powered offense ... Was the Chiefs starting quarterback for half of the '84 season and despite not compiling great statistics, led the team to a 4-4 record in his eight starts and displayed the determination and leadership needed to be a quality NFL signal-caller ... After making just four token appearances as a rookie in '83, he was suddenly thrust into the limelight last year when starter Bill Kenney broke a thumb in the final preseason game ... The composed youngster stepped right in and led the Chiefs to back-to-back victories on the road to open the regular season ... Adding to the pressure, his first NFL start came at Pittsburgh, where his father was the offensive line coach for the Steelers and in the state where he gained collegiate fame at Penn State ... Led the Chiefs to scores on each of their first three possessions, including a one-yard run by himself for the first touchdown, and completed 19 of 36 passes for 170 yards and one TD in a 37-27 victory over the Steelers ... Repeat performance the next Sunday at Cincinnati resulted in a 27-22 Chiefs triumph as he connected on 18 of 35 pass attempts for 280 yards and two touchdowns, including a career-long 46-yard TD to Anthony Hancock ... That was followed by a home-opening loss to the L.A. Raiders, then a road loss at Denver in a game that saw him set career highs with 48 pass attempts, 23 completions and 295 yards ... The 48 attempts rank as the second highest single-game total by an individual in Chiefs history ... Helped the Chiefs post a 10-6 victory over Cleveland the next week, followed by a one-point loss to the N.Y. Jets ... Boosted the Chiefs to a 10-6 halftime lead over San Diego in his seventh start before yielding to Kenney early in the second half ... Did not play in five of the next seven games, but replaced an injured Kenney in the second quarter at Seattle and started his eighth game Week 11 vs. Houston ... Played the final quarter Week 15 vs. Seattle and played most of the second half in the season-ending win at San Diego ... Final totals were 147 completions in 294 pass attempts for 1,707 yards, six touchdowns, 11 interceptions and a QB rating of 59.2 in his 11 outings ... Showed knack for running with the ball, gaining 102 yards on 18 carries, including the one-yard TD run for the Chiefs first score of the season ... Was John Mackovic's first draft choice as head coach of the Chiefs in '83 ... Used his rookie season to learn Mackovic's sophisticated offensive system and was impressive in playing stints in four games ... Accuracy and composure were apparent in his appearances, as he completed 20 of 34 pass attempts (58.8 percent) for 259 yards, three touchdowns and no interceptions ... His QB rating was 112.0 ... First NFL regular season action came Week Five vs. St. Louis when the Chiefs held a comfortable lead in the fourth quarter ... Drove the Chiefs 60 yards in eight plays in his first series, completing four of five passes for 48 yards, including a 15-yard touchdown pass to TE Willie Scott to cap the drive ... His second action came two weeks later in the final two minutes vs. the N.Y. Giants, but he did not attempt a pass ... Third appearance came at Dallas in the fourth quarter and he completed 10 of 19 passes for 95 yards and one TD ... Combined with Kenney in that game to set the Chiefs all-time record for team pass attempts (59), completions (33) and passing first downs (21) ... Most extensive action came in the season finale, when he played the final 1½ quarters in sub-zero weather, completing six of 10 passes for 116 yards and one TD . . . Capped a brilliant collegiate career by leading Penn State to its first-ever national championship and finishing sixth in balloting for the Heisman Trophy . . . Established 28 Penn State records during his three years as quarterback: six career, 11 season, 10 game and one bowl mark . . . Technically had one year of eligibility remaining when he was drafted because of being redshirted his first year with a broken hand . . . Three-year career totals included 341 completions, 658 attempts, 4,812 yards, 41 touchdowns and 41 interceptions . . . Also completed 32 of 58 passes for 520 yards in three bowl games . . . Sensational senior campaign vaulted him to the top of his draft class, connecting on 161 of 292 passes for 2,218 yards, 22 TD's and 14 thefts, leading Penn State to an 11-1 record and the national title by defeating Georgia in the Sugar Bowl . . . Was named MVP in that game by throwing for a school bowl record 228 yards . . . Nittany Lions were 29-4 in games Blackledge started, including 13 come-from-behind wins since he won the starting job the fourth game of 1980 . . . Was winner of distinguished Davey O'Brien National Quarterback Award in 1982 for academic, athletic and leadership qualities . . . Won second-team All-America honors from College and Pro Football Newsweekly and honorable mention from AP, UPI and The Sporting News as a senior, plus was selected to AP's All-East first team and was a COSIDA first team Academic All-America . . . Was the seventh player taken in the '83 draft and was the second quarterback chosen, next to John Elway . . . Graduated Phi Beta Kappa in speech communications . . . Active in Fellowship of Christian Athletes . . . Attended Hoover H.S. in Canton, Ohio, which is the same area John Mackovic and former Chiefs quarterback Len Dawson went to school . . . His father, Ron, is in his fourth year as offensive line coach for the Steelers and formerly was the head coach at Kent State . . . Enjoys golf and fishing . . . Full name: Todd Alan Blackledge . . . Single.

A four-year starter at left inside linebacker who came on strong during the second half of '84 after opening the season on injured reserve . . . Registered 79 tackles (48 solos) despite playing in just 10 games and starting the final nine . . . Missed training camp, the entire preseason and the first six weeks of the regular season with a disc problem in his back . . . Upon his return to the lineup, he rapidly regained the form that made him the Chiefs leading tackler in '83 . . . Recorded 14 tackles in his first start of the '84 season against the Jets at New York . . . Matched that season-high figure five weeks later in the same stadium against the N.Y. Giants . . . His other double-figure game was a 10-tackle effort at Seattle . . . Averaged 8.4 tackles per game in his nine starts . . . Made his first NFL interception Week 15 in a 34-7 victory over the Seahawks, picking off a Dave Krieg pass in the fourth quarter that led to a Chiefs field goal

... Has played in 77 Chiefs games and started 46 ... Signed with the Chiefs as a free agent in 1979 and was one of the club's best kicking team performers as a rookie and in '80, playing in all 16 games both years ... Backed up Whitney Paul at outside linebacker his first season, then moved to an inside spot in '80 and earned a starting berth the final three games ... Finished that campaign with 39 total tackles ... Played well when healthy in '81, making 66 tackles in nine games ... Missed the first six games after suffering a strained knee in the final preseason game, then missed the season finale after reinjuring the same knee against the same team, Miami, in the regular season ... Started all nine games during the '82 campaign and was the Chiefs third-leading tackler with 60 ... Most productive season as a pro was in '83, when he rolled up a career-high 136 total tackles to lead the team ... Started all 16 games and was especially important early in the season when starting RILB Gary Spani was injured, notching 45 tackles in a three game span: a career-high 17 in a Monday night game vs. San Diego, 12 the following Sunday at Washington, then 16 at Miami ... Had over 10 tackles in six different games, leading the club in stops all six times ... Was an 11th-round draft choice of the Buffalo Bills in 1978 ... After being released, he played briefly with Hamilton of the CFL before reporting to the Chiefs ... Played on the defensive line with Art Still at Kentucky and was an all-Southeast Conference performer as a senior ... Majored in criminology ... Is not expected to play in 1985 after suffering a heart attack this past February ... Minimal heart damage occurred and he is active in a rehabilitation program monitored by a local hospital ... Will work in the Chiefs front office in the community relations area in '85 and will have some duties with the Chiefs Radio Network ... Is planning on attempting a comeback in football in '86 ... Has been a major part of the Chiefs offense since joining the team midway through the '83 campaign, particularly as a receiver out of the backfield ... Was on his way to a superb '84 season until spraining an ankle Week Seven vs. San Diego and never regained full health ... Entering that game against the Chargers, he ranked ninth in the AFC in rushing (311 yards), pass receptions (26) and total yards from scrimmage (487) and led the Chiefs in all three categories ... That game also snapped his streak of leading the team in rushing in 10 consecutive games, dating back to '83 ... Carried the ball just 14 times in the nine games following the injury ... Missed two games completely and played sparingly in most of the others ... Still finished the season as the team's second-leading rusher with 337 yards on 97 carries and as the third-leading receiver with 38 receptions for 236 yards ... Scored four rushing touchdowns to tie for the team lead ... Three came in the first two games, including two in the opener at Pittsburgh that tied a personal high ... Best rushing game in '84 came in the first meeting with the N.Y. Jets, the week prior to his injury, when he gained 90 yards on 13 carries (69 in first quarter) ... Had two 25-yard sprints in the first period, his longest runs of the year ... It was his second-most productive rushing game as a Chief and the third-best of his NFL career ... The 90 yards were the most by a Chiefs back in '84 and led to a 205-yard team total, most since '81 ... Topped the 100-total-yard mark in that game, picking up 25 receiving yards on four catches for a total of 115 ... Season receiving bests were six catches and 46 yards at Denver ... Joined the Chiefs the fifth week of '83 after being released by the Seattle Seahawks and provided an immediate boost to the offense ... Despite being on the squad just 12 games, he finished as the Chiefs second-leading rusher with 467 yards on 124 carries and as the third-leading receiver (first among running backs) with 47 catches for 418 yards ... Led the team in touchdowns with 10, eight of which were rushing and two receiving . . . Averaged almost 100 all-purpose yards per game, with his rushing, receiving and kickoff return yardage adding up to 1,186 yards in 12 games . . . Gained over 100 all-purpose yards in his first four games with the Chiefs and in seven overall, with a high of 157 vs. the N.Y. Giants . . . Top rushing game was at San Diego, when he gained 94 yards on just eight carries, the best rushing total for a Chiefs running back since Billy Jackson's 102 yards in the '81 finale . . . Was the Chiefs leading rusher in each of the final four games and for five times overall . . . Top receiving game was at the L.A. Raiders, when he caught six passes for 72 yards . . . Led the team in receiving twice . . . His 47 receptions were the most by a Chiefs running back since Tony Reed's 48 in 1978 . . . Became the Chiefs big-play offensive weapon, making the team's longest run of the year — a career-long 49-yard TD sprint at San Diego — and making the longest pass play of the season — a 53-yard gain on a screen pass vs. Cincinnati . . . Served as the Chiefs primary kickoff return man during his first seven games with the club, compiling a 20.1 average on 15 returns . . . Became an instant success in Kansas City, gaining 52 yards on 11 plays and catching four passes for 15 yards in his debut vs. St. Louis, even running some plays he hadn't worked on in his first week of practice . . . Earned the starting halfback spot, opening in the final nine games . . . Threw the first pass of his NFL career in the Chiefs overtime win over Houston, completing an 11-yarder to TE Willie Scott . . . Chiefs represent Brown's third NFL team, as he was drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals in the second round of '79, then traded to Seattle during midseason of '81 . . . Was used as a fullback at St. Louis and was the Cards third-leading rusher in both '79 and '80 . . . Gained 318 yards on 73 carries and scored seven touchdowns as a rookie, then 185 yards on 41 carries as a "sophomore" . . . Played in all 16 games both years, starting one game (vs. Pittsburgh) his rookie season . . . Also used extensively as a receiver, catching 46 balls in those two years . . . After playing four games (starting three of them) in St. Louis in '81, he was traded to Seattle for the final nine contests . . . Was the Seahawks leading rusher that season with 531 yards on 141 carries and scored six touchdowns, and caught 25 passes for 268 yards . . . Gained a career-high 104 yards on 14 carries vs. the N.Y. Jets in '81, his first start as a member of the Seahawks . . . Played in all nine games in '82 and compiled 141 yards on 53 carries and two touchdowns . . . Has become a fixture at left guard for the Chiefs and is coming off yet another strong campaign . . . Started all 16 games a year ago and played more downs than any other Chiefs offensive lineman . . . Was a key figure in the line's improvement of its sack ratio to just one sack every 19 pass plays (33 sacks in 626 pass plays) . . . That was the lowest sack ratio in Chiefs history and was the fourth-best in the NFL last year . . . Has started 54 of the last 58 games, dating back to the final game of his rookie season of 1980 . . . Only four misses during that span were the final four games of '83 after suffering a sprained knee, the only games he has missed since being drafted No. 1 by the Chiefs in '80 . . . Came to Kansas City with much fanfare, not only because he was the club's No. 1 draft choice and the top collegiate lineman in the country that year, but also because his father, Ed, had been an All-Pro guard for the Chiefs during his career from 1963-76 . . . It marked the first time in pro football history that a father and son had been drafted in the first round by the same team . . . First start of Brad's career came in the fifth game his rookie season, when Bob Simmons was sidelined . . . Next start came in the next to last game of that season and he has maintained the spot ever since . . . Showed great improvement during his second and third seasons, starting every game . . . By 1983, he had developed into one of the better guards in the NFL . . . Was performing at a high level until suffering the first injury of his pro career, a sprained left knee vs. the Dallas Cowboys . . . Spent the final four games on injured reserve, but surgery wasn't required . . . That broke a streak of 38 consecutive games in which he had started . . . Showed versatility that year by starting the N.Y. Giants game at left tackle because of injuries to two Chiefs tackles . . . Enjoyed a brilliant four-year career at USC, capping it by winning the Lombardi Award as the top collegiate lineman of the year . . . Became just the second offensive lineman to win the award . . . Was a consensus first team All-America selection and was named UPI's offensive lineman of the year . . . During his four years, the Trojans gained three Rose Bowl berths and won all three . . . A three-time all-Pacific 10 selection before becoming the 11th player chosen in the '80 draft . . . Was a high school All-America at Rockhurst H.S. in Kansas City, where he played both offense and defense . . . Was a water boy as a youngster at the Chiefs training camp in Liberty, Mo. . . . Wore his father's jersey number (71) at USC, but selected No. 66 when he joined the Chiefs because veteran Dave Lindstrom already had 71 . . . Majored in public administration . . . Has played semi-pro volleyball . . . Full name: Brad Edward Budde . . . Married, wife Nicky, four-year-old daughter Sasha, son Beau born this past year.

One of the most consistent performers in the Chiefs lineup who has gained the respect of opposing quarterbacks . . . Started all 16 games in '84 and intercepted two passes to boost his four-year career total to 11 . . . As always, he played equally well against the run and finished the season as the Chiefs fifth-leading tackler with a career-high 92 (65 solos) . . . First interception came in the home-opening 22-20 loss to the L.A. Raiders with 6:45 remaining in the game and it led to a go-ahead touchdown . . . Second came the following week at Denver, which he returned 16 yards . . . Top tackling effort came vs. the N.Y. Giants, when he registered a career high 13 total stops . . . Made the fourth fumble recovery of his career in a 16-13 Week 14 win over Denver . . . His superb play as an NFL defender has been over-shadowed a bit because the Chiefs secondary has placed at least one player on the AFC Pro Bowl squad each of his four years . . . Was the Chiefs third pick of the third round in '81, coming on a choice obtained from the L.A. Rams in a 1980 trade for Walter White . . . Appeared in all 16 games as a rookie . . . Started the second game of the season, then broke into the lineup permanently in the final 13 games . . . Finished the year with four interceptions and 69 tackles, fourth on the club in both categories . . . Was voted winner of the Mack Lee Hill Award, given annually to the outstanding Chiefs rookie who displayed the qualities of the late Hill . . . Picked off two passes vs. New England . . . Made the Chiefs only interception return for a touchdown that year, picking off a Jim Zorn pass and racing 46 yards in a lopsided win over Seattle . . . Burruss and the late Joe Delaney were the only rookie starters for the Chiefs that year . . . Was also used occasionally on kickoff returns, running back five for 91 yards, an 18.2 average . . . Started all nine games in '82, intercepting one pass and leading the squad with nine pass breakups . . . Also recorded 50 tackles, with a season-high of 12 vs. the Rams . . . Played superbly on kicking teams that year, blocking a field goal attempt and a punt . . . In 1983, he matched his rookie season total of four interceptions despite missing four games with a pulled hamstring . . . The hamstring kept him from being completely healthy the final 10 games and he didn't play in the final three games . . . Played and started 12 games, but had a 29-game starting streak snapped vs. Houston . . . Equalled his single-game best by making two thefts in the final two minutes of the season-opening win over Seattle . . . Was credited with 46 tackles that year and recovered two fumbles vs. Miami . . . Was a four-year starter at Maryland, totaling nine interceptions and 160 tackles during his career . . . Was a first team All-ACC selection and an honorable mention All-America choice by AP . . . Started four bowl games for the Terrapins: Cotton, Hall of Fame, Sun and Tangerine . . . Attended Charlottesville H.S., where he was a prep All-America in football and track . . . Enjoys hunting and fishing . . . Full name: Lloyd Earl Burruss, Jr. . . . Married, wife Pamela, two daughters, Jessica (2) and Danielle, born this past off-season.

Continues his swift climb on the Chiefs all-time pass receiving charts and has become the first player in team history to record two consecutive 1,000-yard receiving seasons . . . Followed his record-breaking Pro Bowl '83 campaign by accumulating 1,078 yards last year on 57 receptions . . . That boosted his five-year career total to 3,170 yards, which ranks fourth on the Chiefs receiving yardage list behind Otis Taylor (7,306), Chris Burford (5,525) and Henry Marshall (5,321) . . . Has become just the fifth player in franchise annals to gain 3,000 career receiving yards . . . His 176 career receptions are 21 shy of Abner Haynes for sixth place on the team's all-time list and 22 away from Fred Arbanas for the fifth position . . . Started all 16 games in '84 and his 1,078 yards led the team and his 57 receptions ranked second to Marshall's 62 . . . The 1,078 yards were the fourth-most for a single season in Chiefs history, behind his record 1,351 total in '83 and two Taylor years (1,297 in '66 and 1,110 in '71) . . . Ranked seventh in the AFC and 11th in the NFL last year in yardage

Compiled over 100 receiving yards in four games in '84, moving his career total to 11, which is second-most in Chiefs history next to Taylor's 21 . . . The four 100-yard games are third-most for a single season, behind Carson's six in '83 and Taylor's six in '66 . . . His first 100-yard performance of '84 came Week Seven in a win over San Diego, when he caught seven passes for 165 yards, which tied his career single-game yardage best set vs. the Chargers in '83 . . . Five of those catches for 135 yards came in the second half of that game when Bill Kenney returned to the lineup for the first time in '84 . . . Two weeks later, he rolled up 131 yards on seven receptions in a win over Tampa Bay . . . Put together back-to-back triple-digit efforts Week 13 and 14, amassing 153 yards on five catches vs. the N.Y. Giants and 126 yards on seven catches against the Denver Broncos . . . The 153 yards were the third-most of his career, behind his two 165-yard games . . . It marked the second time he has produced consecutive 100-yard games, the first coming in '83 . . . He's the third Chiefs player to register consecutive 100-yard games (Taylor and Frank Jackson) and just the second to do it twice (Taylor) . . . All four of his 100-yard games in '84 came in the final 10 contests . . . Finished the season with a four-game flurry of 19 catches for 437 yards . . . Was particularly effective when Kenney was quarterbacking, making 40 receptions for 838 yards in the nine games Kenney played . . . Scored four touchdowns, three coming in the final four games . . . Caught four passes over 50 yards long, including a career-long 57-yarder in the season-ending victory at San Diego . . . Averaged 3.6 receptions and 67.4 yards per game in '84 and 18.9 yards per catch . . . Has gained more receiving yards (2,429) the past two years than any other player in the AFC . . . Caught at least one pass in all 16 games last year, extending his streak of consecutive games with a catch to 42, dating back to 1981 . . . Also owns the team's longest current streak for consecutive games started (43) and fifth-longest for consecutive games played (43) . . . First established himself among the NFL's receiving elite in 1983, recording the most productive receiving season in Chiefs history and being voted as a starter for the AFC Pro Bowl squad . . . Set Chiefs season records for receptions and receiving yardage: his 80 catches shattered a 21-year-old record of 68 receptions by Chris Burford in 1962 and his 1,351 yards broke Taylor's 1966 club mark of 1,297 yards . . . His 1,351 yards were the most in the AFC in '83, second-best in the NFL next to Philadelphia's Mike Quick, and was the 13th best performance in league history . . . His 80 receptions ranked fifth in the NFL and second among wide receivers, behind Houston's Tim Smith

Caught passes for over 100 yards in six games that year, tying Quick for most in the league and tying Taylor's club record of six from 1966

Had over 100 yards receiving in four of the last seven games of '83

Caught a career-high eight passes at Houston . . . Caught seven touchdown passes, the most by a Chiefs wide receiver since Taylor's seven in 1971, with five coming in the final five games . . . Caught two touchdown passes at Dallas, the first time he had more than one in a game in his pro career . . . Threw a 48-yard touchdown pass to Marshall in a Monday night game vs. San Diego for a go-ahead score late in the game . . . Averaged five catches for 84.4 yards per game for the season . . . First entered the starting lineup in '82 when he opened in six of the nine games during the strike-shortened season, including the final four contests . . . Was the Chiefs second-leading receiver that year with 27 receptions for 494 yards, a team-leading 18.3 average and two touchdowns . . . Top yardage game was a 110-yard effort on three catches vs. Denver . . . In 1981, he was off to a good start as a reserve before breaking his left leg in the third game . . . Caught four passes for 101 yards in the first three games, including a 53-yard touchdown that helped the Chiefs upset the Pittsburgh Steelers in the opener . . . Missed the next 11 games before returning for the final two contests . . . Started the finale in place of the injured J.T. Smith . . . Returned 10 kickoffs for a 22.7 average in '81 . . . As a rookie in '80, he was primarily a kick return specialist and finished fifth in the AFC with a 22.9 average on 40 returns . . . That was only one shy of the Chiefs record for most returns in a season held by Noland Smith (1967) . . . His 917 yardage total was second in team history behind Smith's 1967 total of 1,148 yards . . . Also caught five passes for 68 yards as a rookie . . . Was the Chiefs fifth-round draft choice in 1980 on a choice obtained from the Colts . . . At LSU, he made 89 receptions in three years . . . Set NCAA record in '77 by catching six consecutive passes for touchdowns, including five in one game . . . Majored in physical education . . . Attended Leonard H.S. in Lake Worth, Fla. . . . Enjoys fishing . . . Full name: Carlos A. Carson . . . Married, wife Wilma, three-year-old daughter Brooke.

Has quickly become regarded as one of the best defenders in the NFL, coming off his second consecutive Pro Bowl campaign . . . Put together another superb performance in '84, proving his "Cinderella" 1983 season, in which he earned a Pro Bowl berth in his first year as a starter, was no fluke . . . Made seven interceptions for the second straight year, ranking third (tie) in the AFC behind Seattle's Kenny Easley and Dave Brown, and for fourth (tie) in the NFL . . . His 140 return yards were a career high and the most by a Chiefs player since 1980 . . . Also finished as the Chiefs second-leading tackler by recording a career-high 128 total stops, three behind Art Still . . . His first five interceptions came in the first seven games . . . Saved a 10-6 victory over Cleveland by snatching a Paul McDonald pass at the KC 10-yard line with 52 seconds left in the game and returned it a career-long 67 yards . . . Picked off two Jim Plunkett passes vs. L.A., stopping Raider drives in KC territory both times, once in the end zone . . . The two thefts tied his single-game best, first set against St. Louis in '83 . . . First interception in '84 came off David Woodley in the season-opening win at Pittsburgh and set up a TD . . . Other interceptions came off Dan Fouts in a Week Seven win over San Diego, against Phil Simms in a one-point loss to the N.Y. Giants and off Dave Krieg in a Week 15 victory over Seattle . . . Made a career-most 15 tackles (11 solos) vs. the Giants and hit double figures in tackles five times . . . Forced a fumble at Cincinnati in the final minute at the KC 29-yard line, preserving a 27-22 triumph . . . In addition to Pro Bowl honors, he was named to the All-NFL first team by AP and College and Pro Football Weekly, the All-AFC first team by UPI and the All-NFL second team by Newspaper Enterprise Association . . . Is the leader of the Chiefs' young, but talented secondary . . . Has started 32 consecutive games and has made 15 career interceptions . . . Vaulted from a backup defensive back to one of league's best safeties in 1983 and capped that brilliant season by being voted as the AFC's starting free safety in the Pro Bowl . . . After seeing limited playing time his first two NFL seasons, he earned the Chiefs starting free safety job in the '83 training camp when All-Pro Gary Barbaro was an unsigned free agent . . . Took full advantage of the opportunity and played consistently all season long, starting all 16 games and leading the league in interceptions most of the season . . . Finished with seven, which ranked third in the AFC, one behind Cincinnati's Ken Riley and the Raiders Vann McElroy, and sixth in the entire NFL . . . Also had three thefts called back because of a penalty away from the play . . . Picked off two Randy Lisch passes vs. St. Louis, marking the first time in his career for more than one theft in a single game . . . Was the Chiefs second-leading tackler in '83 with a career-high 110 total stops, behind Jerry Blanton's 136 . . . Was credited with 1½ quarterback sacks vs. Cincinnati that year, the first of his pro career . . . Recovered two fumbles and forced two others during the campaign . . . Performed well on kicking teams and blocked a field goal attempt in a Chiefs victory over St. Louis . . . Named to the College and Pro Football Newsweekly All-Pro Team, the All-AFC first team by UPI and Pro Football Weekly and the AP All-Pro second team . . . Originally signed with the Chiefs as a punter in the summer of 1981 . . . When it became apparent he wouldn't beat out incumbent Bob Grupp, he switched to the secondary during preseason . . . Was released on the final cutdown, but re-joined the club on Sept. 23 when the Chiefs made several roster moves due to injuries . . . Played in 13 games in '81 and made one interception . . . Served as the Chiefs nickel back in '82, although he missed at least part of four games due to a sprained ankle early in the season and a separated shoulder late in the year . . . On kicking teams, he recovered a blocked punt vs. San Francisco . . . At Rutgers, he was a strong safety and punter, earning AP All-East honors in 1979-80 . . . Majored in biology . . . Enjoys music and golf . . . Attended Palmyra H.S. in New Jersey, where he was quarterback and played basketball and baseball . . . Full name: Deron Leigh Cherry . . . Has held down the starting right guard position for the Chiefs since 1975, his second year in the league . . . Begins his 12th NFL campaign and has played for more seasons (11) and in more games (147) than any other player on the Chiefs roster . . . Started all 16 games in '84 and helped the offensive unit post the best ratio of sacks per pass plays in franchise history . . . It allowed just 33 sacks in 626 pass plays for a 1.19 ratio, which ranked fourth in the NFL last year . . . Has now started 119 of the last 129 Chiefs games, dating back to '76 . . . That included a streak of 95 consecutive starts until a sprained foot sidelined him for the final two contests of the '82 season . . . A 10th-round draft choice in 1974, he made the team his rookie year with good special teams play . . . Earned a starting spot at guard in '75, but missed the final eight games that year after undergoing knee surgery . . . Won back his starting job at the beginning of the '76 season and has kept it ever since . . . Suffered through a rare injury-riddled '83 season, but still managed to play in nine games and start eight . . . Started the first three contests of the season, missed the next three, played in the following two before re-injuring the foot, was placed on injured reserve for four games, then started the final four games of the campaign . . . Will be in his second year as a full time starter in '85, rapidly establishing himself as an intimidating outside linebacker . . . Grew as an all-around performer in '84 and played a large role in the improved Chiefs defense, nailing down a career-high 90 tackles and helping boost the pass rush to record levels as a blitzing, making 4½ sacks . . . Also made the first two interceptions of his NFL career . . . Started all 16 games, the first 13 on the right side and the final three on the left side . . . His 90 tackles, which included 47 solos, ranked sixth on the defense . . . Top single-game tackling output of his career came in the second meeting with the L.A. Raiders, when he netted 12 . . . His 4½ sacks were the most by a Chiefs linebacker since Whitney Paul's eight in 1979 and the fourth-highest total at that position since sacks began being recorded for individuals in '73 . . . Best single-game sack total came in the first of two victories over San Diego, when he recorded 1½ . . . That included one that forced a Dan Fouts fumble at the KC seven-yard line on a third down play in the fourth quarter with the Chiefs leading 17-13 . . . First NFL interception came in a Week Five win over Cleveland and his second was during a Week 15 triumph over Seattle . . . Also a strong kicking teams player who had the Chiefs only block of the year, batting down a PAT attempt in the home opener vs. the Raiders . . . Has played in all 41 games since being drafted by the Chiefs in the second round in 1982 . . . Played in all nine games as a rookie, but mostly on kicking teams . . . Made just two tackles in regular play, plus six kicking team stops . . . Broke the fibula in his foot in the '82 finale vs. the N.Y. Jets . . . Saw limited action in the first half of his "sophomore" season, but played more in the final seven games and cracked the starting lineup in the finale, replacing Charles Jackson . . . Made 14 of his season total of 15 tackles in the final seven games, including all of his 2½ quarterback sacks . . . Recovered a Sammy Winder fumble in the finale vs. Denver to set up a touchdown in the Chiefs 48-17 victory . . . Played in all 16 games in '83 . . . Registered 12 kicking teams tackles . . . Started three years at North Carolina, recording 166 career tackles, including 27 behind the line of scrimmage and was one of the top linebackers in his draft class . . . Teamed with Lawrence Taylor, now an All-Pro for the N.Y. Giants, in 1979 and '80 to give UNC a tremendous outside linebacking duo . . . Was a starter in the 'Tar Heels' 1979 and 1981 Gator Bowl victories and their '80 Bluebonnet Bowl win . . . Also played in the Japan Bowl after senior season . . . Majored in recreation and is interested in recreational therapy for kids . . . As a prepster at Goldsboro H.S. in North Carolina, he was selected to All-East teams as a defensive tackle . . . Also participated in wrestling and baseball . . . Full name: Calvin Richard Daniels . . . Single.

Will have played in the NFL for a decade by the conclusion of the '85 season as the Chiefs starting left tackle . . . Of his Chiefs teammates, only Tom Condon (12th year) has played in the league longer . . . Has played in 115 Chiefs games, third-most on the squad behind Condon (147) and Henry Marshall (126) . . . Started 15 games last year, missing the Cincinnati game the second week of the season after straining his right knee in the second quarter of the opener at Pittsburgh . . . Came back strong and helped the offensive line improve its pass protection, the unit allowing just 33 sacks in 626 pass plays . . . That 1:19 ratio was the best in Chiefs history and ranked fourth in the NFL in '84 . . . Alternated with '84 first-round draftee John Alt throughout much of the season . . . Was a fourth-round draft choice of the Chiefs in 1974, but did not play in Kansas City for two years . . . Signed with the New York Stars of the World Football League, moved to Charlotte with the Stars in mid-1974, then joined the Chiefs when that season ended . . . Spent all of the '75 season on injured reserve with ankle problems before taking over as a starter the third game of '76 . . . Appeared in 47 consecutive games until mid-1979, when he sustained ligament damage to his right knee and missed the final 11 contests . . . Recovered to regain his starting status in '80 until a left knee injury sidelined him the final two games . . . Started every game in '81 and '82 before having a 31-game starting streak snapped in mid-1983 due to a hamstring injury . . . Played in the first 12 games that year before the hamstring pull caused him to miss the final four contests . . . Started 11 of those games, but didn't open the Week Seven game vs. the N.Y. Giants because of the hamstring . . . At age 34, he is the oldest member of the Chiefs squad . . . Was a two-year starter at left tackle at the University of Minnesota, earning honorable mention all-Big Ten honors . . . Named the Golden Gophers offensive MVP in 1973 . . . Majored in sociology . . . Attended Melrose H.S. in Minnesota, where he played tight end . . . Full name: Matthew Bernard Herkenhoff . . . Married, wife Dawn.

Has been the starting fullback for most of the last three seasons . . . After leading the team in rushing in John Mackovic's first year of 1983, he started nine games last year and finished as the team's third-leading rusher with 225 yards on 50 carries . . . His 4.5-yard average per carry was the best of his career and topped all Chiefs running backs in '84 . . . Best rushing game of the season was a seven-carry, 46-yard effort the eighth week vs. the N.Y. Jets . . . Led the team in rushing the following week, gaining 31 yards on five carries in a 24-20 win over Tampa Bay . . . Caught 15 passes for 101 yards in '84 . . . Best receiving day was a four-catch, 29-yard performance vs. Cleveland that included a nine-yard touchdown reception for the Chiefs only TD in a 10-6 victory . . . Was limited the final three weeks due to a turf toe injury, although he scored his only rushing TD of the season on a three-yard run at San Diego in the finale . . . Has scored more touchdowns (18) than any other Chiefs player in his four pro years . . . Played in all 16 games and has now played in all 56 games since being the Chiefs seventh-round draft choice in 1981 and has started 32 . . . Established himself as the Chiefs goal line and short yardage specialist as a rookie . . . Set the club record for rushing touchdowns with 10 and had a total of 11 . . . His 66 points ranked fourth in the AFC among non-kickers that year . . . Finished his rookie campaign with 398 rushing yards on 111 carries and played in all 16 games . . . Top performance of his pro career came in his first NFL start in the season finale at Minnesota, when he rambled for 102 yards on 25 carries (the last Chief to top 100 yards rushing in a game), helping the Chiefs to a 10-6 victory and a winning season . . . Saw limited action in the first seven games that year, but came into his own during Week Eight at Oakland, scoring three touchdowns while playing halfback for the first time . . . In 1982, he played a versatile role by winning the starting fullback job, then moving to halfback later in the season due to injuries to the late Joe Delaney . . . Started seven games at fullback and one at halfback, finishing as the Chiefs second-leading rusher with 243 yards on 86 carries . . . Didn't start the finale due to a toe injury . . . Scored all three of the Chiefs rushing touchdowns that year . . . Top rushing game in '82 was 53 yards on 12 carries in the opener vs. Buffalo . . . Best season as a pro was in '83, when he led the team with 499 rushing yards on 152 carries and two touchdowns . . . Also was used frequently as a pass receiver for the first time of his career, catching 32 passes for 243 yards . . . Best rushing game was in the season opener vs. Seattle, when he gained 77 yards on 19 carries, both ranking as the second-best game totals of his career . . . Set career highs with five receptions against the L.A. Raiders and at San Diego, but his top receiving yardage was 35 vs. Denver in the finale . . . Played in all 16 games and started 14, as a hamstring pull bothered him in several late-season games . . . Was a three-year letterman at Alabama, but didn't compile great statistics because of the late Bear Bryant's multi-back system . . . Gained 606 yards on 111 carries his senior season, earning all-Southwest Conference second-team and honorable mention All-America honors . . . Was a member of two national championship teams with the Crimson Tide ('78 and '79) . . . Majored in social work . . . Attended Central H.S. in Phenix City, Ala. . . . Enjoys fishing and hunting . . . Full name: Billy Thurman Jackson . . . Married, wife Sandra, one-year-old son Christopher.

Has worked his way into the upper echelon of NFL quarterbacks the past two years while directing John Mackovic's pass-oriented offense . . . Entered the elite with a record-breaking '83 season and continued his strong performances even through an injury-plagued '84 campaign . . . Coming off his '83 Pro Bowl year and an impressive '84 preseason, he suffered a broken thumb on his passing hand when it hit a helmet during a pass attempt in the final preseason game at New England . . . Spent the first five games of the regular season on injured reserve, and though he was activated the day prior to the sixth game, wasn't ready to play until Game Seven . . . Made a grand entry in his first outing, entering the game midway through the third quarter and completing 13 of 22 passes for 238 yards and two touchdowns, sparking the Chiefs to a 31-13 win over San Diego at Arrowhead . . . Was named the NFL offensive player of the week by Sports Illustrated for his performance . . . His presence made an immediate impact on a sluggish passing attack and he went on to complete 151 of 282 pass attempts for 2,098 yards, 15 touchdowns and 10 interceptions in his nine games . . . Finished sixth in the AFC with an 80.7 QB rating . . . First start came the week following the San Diego game in a one-point loss to the N.Y. Jets . . . In his second start, he rolled up his best totals of the season by connecting on 26 of 46 passes for 332 yards and two touchdowns in a gutsy performance which saw him play despite bruising a knee and shoulder and cutting his injured passing thumb in a 24-20 victory over Tampa Bay . . . The 26 completions were the third-most in a single game of his career (and tied for third in Chiefs history), the 46 attempts tied for his second-most (and tied for third-most in team history) and the 332 yards were the fourth-most of his career . . . Was forced to leave the following week's game at Seattle in the second quarter with knee, shoulder and elbow injuries and did not play the next Sunday vs. Houston . . . Came back to start the final five games and played superbly, leading the Chiefs to victory in the final three . . . Threw for 1,318 yards in those five games, completing 54 percent of his passes and tossing 10 touchdown passes and just three interceptions . . . Those stats are even more impressive considering he didn't play the fourth quarter vs. Seattle and most of the second half vs. San Diego after leading the Chiefs to big leads in the final two games . . . Passed for 312 yards in the Seattle game, his second 300-yard outing of the season, which increased his Chiefs record career total to 11 . . . In the finale, he completed 17 of 23 passes for 245 yards and three touchdowns in just over a half and surpassed the 10,000-yard career passing yardage plateau . . . Now has 10,163 yards, which ranks third in Chiefs history behind Len Dawson (28,507) and Mike Livingston (11,295) . . . Is 1,132 yards away from second place . . . Also ranks third in Chiefs annals with 1,397 pass attempts and 776 completions behind Dawson (3,696-2,115) and Livingston (1,751-912) . . . Has moved into second place in touchdown passes with 60 behind Dawson's 237 . . . His 52 interceptions are third, next to Dawson (178) and Livingston (83) . . . Won the starting quarterback job in Mackovic's first year in '83 and recorded one of the top single-season passing performances in NFL history . . . En route to breaking nearly every Chiefs passing record and earning a Pro Bowl berth, he came close to several NFL marks . . . Became just the fifth quarterback in league history to pass for more than 4,000 yards in a single season, joining the elite group of Dan Fouts, Joe Namath, Brian Sipe and Lynn Dickey (three other QBs joined that group in '84) . . . His 4,348 yards were the fourth-most ever attained, behind two of Fouts' seasons (4,802 in 1982 and 4,715 in 1980) and Dickey's '83 season (4,458) . . . Attempted 603 passes, which ranked second in NFL annals behind Fouts' 609 in 1981 . . . Completed 346 passes, the fourth-best total on record at that time behind Fouts (360 in '81 and 348 in '80) and Steve DeBerg (347 in 1979 at San Francisco) . . . Threw for over 300 yards in seven games, which tied for second in league history with Fouts in 1981 and behind Fouts' eight-game performance in '80 . . . Had a streak of four consecutive 300-yard-plus games, which also tied for second with Fouts' 1979 season and behind Joe Montana's five in 1982 . . . Kenney's '83 totals completely shattered previous Chiefs season records: his 4,348 yards easily surpassed Dawson's 1974 record of 2,879 yards, his 603 attempts outdistanced Cotton Davidson's 1960 mark of 379, and his 346 completions buried Dawson's 1967 record of 206 completions . . . Also broke Dawson's 1962 total offense record of 3,011 yards, gaining 4,407 yards (4,348 passing and 59 rushing) . . . Best game of his season and career came Week 15 at San Diego, when he threaded the Chargers defense for 411 yards by completing 31 of 41 attempts and threw four touchdown passes . . . The 31 completions set the Chiefs single-game record, the 411 yards were a personal best and ranked second in Chiefs history behind a 435-yard Dawson performance and the four TD passes tied a personal best he set twice earlier in '83 at Seattle and vs. the N.Y. Giants . . . Another top game was at Denver, when he attempted a Chiefs record 52 passes, completed 27, which was a record until his 31 vs. San Diego, and threw for 365 yards, which was a personal best until his 411 yards vs. San Diego . . . At Dallas, he completed 23 of 40 passes for 337 yards and combined with Todd Blackledge to set the Chiefs team record for single-game pass attempts (59) and completions (33) . . . Tied Dawson's record of 15 consecutive pass completions early in the season when he connected on his final 13 passes in a Monday night game vs. San Diego and completed his first two passes the following Sunday at Washington . . . Attempted 40 or more passes in eight games and completed 20 or more passes in 12 contests . . . Scored the first rushing touchdown of his career vs. Cincinnati, then scored twice on sneaks at Seattle and caught the first pass of his career on a deflected attempt in that game . . . Threw 24 touchdown passes in '83, which tied for fourth in Chiefs history, and threw 18 interceptions, third-most in the club's list . . . Ranked seventh in the AFC with a quarterback rating of 80.8 . . . Ranked first in the NFL in attempts and completions and second in yards behind Dickey . . . Was named the Chief's Most Valuable Player by his teammates following the '83 season . . . Was voted as an alternate to the AFC Pro Bowl team, then played in the game when Miami's Dan Marino couldn't go because of an injury . . . Kenney's sensational season came after a preseason battle with Steve Fuller, who had shared the job with Kenney the previous three seasons and was traded to the L.A. Rams, and with No. 1 draft choice Todd Blackledge on his heels . . . Was instrumental in helping Mackovic convert the Chiefs from a run-oriented offense to a pass-oriented attack . . . Signed with the Chiefs as a free agent in '79 and beat out Pete Woods for the third QB spot, behind Fuller and Livingston . . . Was on the Chiefs active roster that entire season, but didn't play a down . . . First regular season action of NFL career came in '80 when he replaced the injured Fuller in the final three games . . . Leading the Chiefs to victory in two of the three, he passed for 542 yards, including 316 in the finale vs. the Colts . . . Started the first 13 games in '81 and completed 147 of 274 passes for 1,983 yards and nine touchdowns before being replaced by Fuller in the final three games . . . Best game that season was vs. San Diego, when he connected on 22 of 41 attempts for 303 yards . . . Started the first three and final three contests during the strike-shortened '82 campaign . . . Was replaced by Fuller during mid-season, but won back the job with his first relief appearance as a pro vs. the Raiders . . . Completed 95 of 169 passes for 1,192 yards and seven touchdowns, ranking seventh in the AFC with a QB rating of 77.0 . . . Best game was in the season finale against the N.Y. Jets, when he threw for 223 yards and completed 18 of 27 passes, including 11 in a row, and three touchdowns . . . Was the next to last player taken in the 1978 draft by the Miami Dolphins . . . Was traded to the Washington Redskins during that preseason, but was released and he sat out the '78 season . . . Began his collegiate career at Arizona State under Frank Kush, but transferred to Saddleback (Calif.) Junior College and then on to Northern Colorado . . . At UNC, he played tight end as a junior, catching 17 passes, then subbed at quarterback in two games and completed 18 of 40 passes . . . Played QB full time as a senior, completing 97 of 226 passes for 1,264 yards and seven touchdowns . . . Attended San Clemente (Calif.) H.S. . . . Majored in Business Administration . . . His father, Charles, was a guard for the San Francisco 49ers in 1947 . . . Hobbies include fishing, hunting, landscaping and wood-working . . . Active in Fellowship of Christian Athletes and works with inner-city families in Kansas City . . . Full name: William Patrick Kenney . . . Married, wife Sandi, four-year-old daughter Kristin and two-year-old son Billy.

Plays frequently as the fourth down lineman and backs up Bill Maas at nose tackle . . . Played in all 16 games last year, recording 30 total tackles and 2½ sacks . . . Started a Week Nine victory over Tampa Bay and made a season-high six stops . . . Made the first interception of his NFL career in a 34-7 win over Seattle the next to last game of the season, setting up the Chiefs final touchdown . . . First sack came in the opener at Pittsburgh, his second came during a team-record 11-sack assault vs. Cleveland and he shared one at the L.A. Raiders when he played the entire second half for the injured Maas . . . Has now played in 71 consecutive games for the Chiefs, the third-longest streak on the team, two behind Dave Lindstrom and Nick Lowery . . . Has played in all but two games since coming to Kansas City as the Chiefs seventh-round draft choice in '79 . . . His career totals include 87 games, 23 starts, 197 total tackles, 22 sacks and four fumble recoveries . . . Played in all 16 games as a rookie, totaling 27 tackles and four sacks . . . In 1980, he got off to a slow start after injuring his ankle and knee in the final preseason game, but ended the campaign with 20 tackles, four sacks and one fumble recovery in 14 games . . . Played strictly nose tackle in '81, after alternating between nose tackle and defensive end his first two years, and put together his best season as a pro . . . Led the Chiefs in sacks with a career-high eight and accumulated a career-high 61 tackles . . . Also recovered two fumbles . . . Played in all 16 games and started eight that year, sharing the position with Don Parrish . . . Was the sole starter at nose tackle in '82, opening all nine games and finishing with 36 tackles, including 1½ sacks . . . Made a career single-game high of 10 tackles vs. the L.A. Raiders that year . . . Shared the starting NT job with Dino Mangiero in '83, starting five of the first six games and playing as a reserve the remainder of the season . . . Played in all 16 games and registered 23 total tackles, including two sacks and a fumble recovery . . . Was hampered part of the season by a neck and shoulder injury called a "burner" . . . At Ball State, he was named to the Mid-America Conference first team his final two years and was the conference player of the year as a senior . . . Attended Thornton Francional H.S. in Lansing, Ill. . . . Owns a sports bar and grill in the Westport area of Kansas City called "Fuzzy's" taken after his nickname . . . Will be battling for the starting fullback job in '85 after sharing that role with Billy Jackson last year, his first with the Chiefs after two years in the USFL . . . Started four games as an NFL rookie, including the final two of the season, and finished fourth on the team's rushing list with 165 yards on 46 carries . . . Scored four touchdowns (two rushing and two receiving) to tie for the team lead . . . Productivity was slowed a bit by the fact he had played since February that year when the USFL season opened, jumping straight to the Chiefs training camp in July . . . Was also hampered by a pulled groin muscle during preseason and the early part of the regular season . . . Missed the Cincinnati game the second week of the campaign and played sparingly until Week Six . . . Best game in '84 was in his first NFL start, a seventh week victory over San Diego, when he gained 40 rushing yards on seven carries and caught three passes, all season highs . . . Scored his first NFL touchdown on a 24-yard run in the first quarter of that game and that was his longest rush of the season . . . Longest pass reception was a 20-yarder vs. Houston . . . Caught 13 passes for 87 yards for the season . . . Scored two touchdowns in a 24-20 win over Tampa Bay, a two-yard run in the second quarter and a five-yard pass reception in the third period for the Chiefs first two scores . . . Signed with the Chiefs as a free agent in April of '84 after two years with the Michigan Panthers . . . Emerged as one of the USFL's top players as a rookie in '83, finishing as the league's third-leading rusher with 1,180 yards on 232 carries and six touchdowns while leading Michigan to the league championship . . . Also caught 40 passes for 433 yards and two TDs that year . . . Was a sixth-round draft choice by Michigan after a brilliant collegiate career at Tulsa . . . Became the school's third-leading rusher of all time as a wishbone fullback, gaining 2,272 yards on 450 carries (5.1 average) and 20 touchdowns in four years . . . Also caught 16 passes for 127 yards . . . Top season was as a senior in '82, when he rambled for 1,097 yards on 199 attempts and 12 TDs . . . Teamed with Chiefs teammate Micheal Gunter to lead the Golden Hurricane to a 10-1 record in '82, the school's best in 40 years . . . The two were nicknamed the "Palomino Express" and were the only pair in college football in '82 to each gain over 1,000 yards for the same team and just the 14th duo in NCAA history to do so . . . Was a first-team All-Missouri Valley Conference selection as a sophomore and senior . . . Was slowed by a knee injury as a junior . . . Attended Kimball H.S. in Dallas, earning just second-team all-district honors in a highly competitive area . . . Also was the regional hurdles champ . . . Education major . . . Special interests include cars and jazz music . . . Full name: Kenneth Wayne Lacy, Jr. . . . Married, wife Suzanne, three-year-old daughter Krystal.

with 19 seconds left in the half and the Chiefs scored a touchdown on the next play . . . Top tackling games were 10 solo stops in a 31-13 win over San Diego and 10 total stops (eight solos) in a 24-20 win over Tampa Bay . . . Made the first sack of his pro career vs. Houston and it was the first sack by a Chiefs defensive back in '84 . . . After starting the first 15 games, he missed the season finale after straining his right knee the previous week vs. Seattle and going on injured reserve . . . It was the first missed game of his NFL career . . . Spent most of his rookie year as the team's nickel back until winning the starting job in the finale . . . Made four interceptions and recorded 36 total tackles that year . . . First NFL theft came off Jim Hart vs. St. Louis, then he picked off two Jim Plunkett passes in the first quarter the following week vs. the Raiders . . . Final interception came at Seattle, which he returned a career-long 34 yards . . . Top tackling performance of '83 was eight solos and one assist vs. the Raiders . . . Also has been one of the team's top kicking teams players his first two years . . . Compiled a team-leading 27 tackles as a rookie and added 14 (fourth on team) last year . . . In '83, he recovered a Leon Bright fumble on a punt return on the N.Y. Giants 23-yard line and the Chiefs scored a TD two plays later . . . Was the Chiefs third-round draft choice in '83 out of Grambling . . . Was a first team All-Southwestern Athletic Conference selection his final two years . . . Intercepted 11 passes in those two seasons, including a SWAC-leading seven as a junior . . . Was chosen to play in the Senior Bowl . . . Attended DeSoto H.S. in Mansfield, La., where he was a two-year All-District defensive back . . . Won nine letters in football (3), basketball (3), and track (3) . . . A durable performer who has had a great impact on the Chiefs defensive line since joining the team eight years ago . . . Has played in 73 consecutive games for the Chiefs, tying PK Nick Lowery for the longest streak on the team . . . Even more importantly, he has started 28 games the past five seasons when regular ends Art Still and Mike Bell — possibly the best DE tandem in the league — have been injured . . . Has helped the cohesiveness of the d-line during those times and kept it one of the strongest areas of the team . . . Started two of the final four games last year (at N.Y. Giants and at San Diego) and saw considerable action the entire second half of the season while Bell was hampered by a knee injury . . . Registered 34 tackles (26 unassisted), including two sacks . . . Top '84 games were five tackles and a sack at the N.Y. Jets, five tackles and four QB pressures at the L.A. Raiders and five solo tackles at San Diego in the finale . . . Has played in all but three games during his seven years with the Chiefs . . . Career log reads: 102 games, 28 starts, 183 total tackles and 12 sacks . . . Joined the Chiefs in 1978 after being claimed on waivers from the Chargers . . . Saw considerable action in '78 and '79 in a defensive line rotation system, although he made no starts . . . Played in all 16 games as a rookie and finished with 20 tackles . . . Appeared in 13 contests in '79, missing the final three games with a strained knee, and made 16 stops . . . His first big season was in 1980, when he started 14 games after Bell was injured early in the campaign and was credited with 30 tackles and four sacks . . . Came to the Chiefs rescue for the second straight year in '81, when he started five games after Still was injured and totaled a career-high 37 tackles while playing in all 16 games . . . Was called on again in '82 when Bell was injured and started four of the nine games that year, registering 19 tackles and three sacks . . . Was awarded a game ball by his teammates following a 19-12 win over San Diego when he sacked Dan Fouts twice, one of which forced a fumble which led to a Chiefs field goal . . . Started three games in '83 for Still and collected 27 total tackles, including one sack, while playing all 16 contests . . . Was San Diego's sixth-round draft choice in 1977, but spent the entire season on injured reserve . . . Spent his collegiate career at Boston University, where he was the team's most valuable player his senior season . . . Attended Weymouth South H.S. in Mass. . . . Brother, Chris, has been a defensive lineman with the Cardinals, Colts, 49ers and in the USFL . . . Works for a commercial real estate firm in Kansas City . . . Full name: David Alan Lindstrom . . . Married, wife Mary.

Is the No. 1-ranked career field goal kicker in NFL history, based on completion percentage . . . Has connected on 112 of 150 field goal attempts in his five NFL seasons for a 74.7 percentage . . . Need 100 successful field goal attempts to qualify for the list and he reached that plateau the sixth game of '84 and surpassed San Diego's Rolf Benirschke . . . His closest competitor entering the '85 season is Detroit's Ed Murray, who has a 73.0 career percentage . . . Connected on 23 of 33 field goal attempts in '84 and was selected as the second alternate for the AFC Pro Bowl placekicker . . . Compiled his third season of over 100 points scored, finishing with 104 . . . His 23 field goals ranked third in the AFC and tied for eighth in the NFL, his 33 attempts were the most in the AFC and tied for fourth-most in the NFL and his 104 points ranked fourth in the AFC and ninth in the NFL . . . Began the '84 campaign by making his first seven field goal attempts before hitting an upright with a 30-yard attempt vs. the L.A. Raiders, the shortest miss of his NFL career . . . That broke a streak of 13 consecutive field goals dating back to '83 . . . His season-opening streak included a 52-yarder Week Two at Cincinnati, which tied for the fourth-longest of his career . . . Booted another 52-yarder vs. the N.Y. Giants . . . Kicked three fourth-quarter field goals Week 14 vs. Denver, including a 42-yard game-winner with 1:56 remaining, in a 16-13 victory . . . Made three field goals in four games in '84 . . . Made all seven of his attempts inside the 30-yard line and has now made all 30 of his career attempts in that range with no misses . . . Ranks second on the Chiefs all-time charts in scoring (506 points), field goals (112) and PAT's (170), all behind Jan Stenerud totals . . . In addition to being the NFL's most accurate kicker of all time, he also has been among the most productive since joining the Chiefs in 1980 . . . Among kickers who have been in the league those entire five seasons, his 112 successful field goals are second behind Mark Moseley's 114 and his 506 points are second behind Moseley's 533 . . . Maybe the truest statistic is average length of field goals made and missed, which Lowery leads all kickers the past five years with a 36.1-yard average for field goals made and 46.2 for missed attempts . . . Has attempted more field goals 50 yards or longer (26) than any other kicker during that period and has made more than any other (9) . . . Has made 83.1 percent (103 of 124) of his attempts inside the 50-yard line in his career . . . Has missed just two PAT's in his career in 179 attempts and has a current streak of 46 in a row . . . Beat out longtime Kansas City legend Jan Stenerud in 1980 as a rookie free agent and rebutted the skeptics quickly with superb kicking . . . In the second game of the season vs. Seattle, he boomed a 57-yard field goal, which broke the club record of 55 yards set by Stenerud in '70 . . . Made good on 20 of 26 field goal attempts that year, including 16 of 19 inside midfield . . . Finished his rookie campaign with 97 points . . . Capped a brilliant 1981 season by being voted as the placekicker for the AFC Pro Bowl squad, then won the Pro Bowl Game with a 23-yard field goal with three seconds remaining . . . Connected on 26 of 36 attempts that year, including 25 of 29 inside the 50-yard line, and scored 115 points . . . The 26 field goals were the most in the AFC in '81 and the 115 points tied him with Jim Breech for most in the conference . . . Selected to the All-NFL team by Newspaper Enterprise Assn., and to the UPI All-AFC first team . . . In the nine-game '82 campaign, he broke the Chiefs field goal completion percentage record by converting 19 of 24 attempts for 79.2 percent, breaking Stenerud's 1969 mark of 77.1 percent . . . His 19 field goals were tops in the AFC for the second straight year (and second in the NFL next to Moseley's 20) and his 74 points were second in the conference and third in the NFL . . . Made 19 of 21 tries inside midfield and was perfect inside the 40-yard line . . . Earned second-team AFC honors from UPI in '82 . . . In 1983, he set the team record for field goal completion percentage for the second straight season, making 24 of 30 attempts for 80.0 percent . . . Only misses were from 52, 51, 48, 47, 43 and 42 yards out . . . Set a personal best with 116 points, the third-best mark in Chiefs history behind Stenerud's 129 points in '68 and 119 points in '69 . . . His 116 points ranked second in the AFC and sixth in the NFL that year . . . Broke his own Chiefs record for longest field goal made when he rocketed a 58-yarder at Washington, tying for the third-longest field goal in NFL history behind Tom Dempsey's 63-yarder in '70 and Tony Franklin's 59-yarder in '79 . . . Made a 54-yard effort vs. the Raiders that year, the third-longest of his career and tied for fourth-longest in Chiefs history . . . Before winning a spot with the Chiefs, he had tried unsuccessfully with eight other NFL teams . . . After not being drafted out of Dartmouth, he tried out with the N.Y. Jets in '78, but was cut during training camp . . . Then signed with New England during mid-season and appeared in two games, connecting on all seven PAT's and missing his only field goal attempt before being released . . . Failed in tryouts with Cincinnati, Washington, Baltimore, New Orleans, Tampa Bay and San Diego in '79 . . . Has spent parts of five summers in Washington, D.C., working as an assistant in different legislative areas of the U.S. Government . . . Spent part of his childhood in Europe, where he played both rugby and soccer . . . His father worked for the State Department at the American Embassy in London . . . Majored in government . . . Interests include politics, drama, jazz music, drums and tennis . . . Among his many civic activities is his "Kick With Nick" program, in which he raises money for Cerebral Palsy, including a donation for each field goal he makes . . . One of the top, young offensive linemen in the league who was sidelined for over half of last year with a knee injury after turning in a brilliant rookie campaign . . . Suffered ligament damage in his right knee in the second quarter of the season opener at Pittsburgh, underwent arthroscopic surgery and spent nine weeks on the injured reserve list . . . Returned to action Week 11 vs. Houston, then started the final five games . . . Season totals were seven games played and six starts . . . Has helped the Chiefs' offensive line make a drastic improvement in his two seasons . . . The year before he joined the Chiefs, the offensive line averaged one sack allowed every 7.6 pass plays, but that dropped sharply to one every 15 pass plays during his first year and to a team-record one every 19 pass plays last season . . . Was drafted by the Chiefs in the second round in '83, stepped into the starting lineup at right tackle during the preseason and went on to become Kansas City's only offensive lineman to start all 16 games that year . . . Was chosen by his veteran teammates as the 1983 winner of the Mack Lee Hill Award, an annual award given to the Chiefs' outstanding rookie who best exemplifies the play and spirit of the late Hill . . . Also was named to the 1983 NFL All-Rookie Team by Football Digest . . . Became the first Chiefs rookie to start the season-opening game since DE Art Still and Sylvester Hicks in '78 . . . Beat out 10-year veteran Charlie Getty, who was traded to the Green Bay Packers, for the right tackle job . . . Selected by his teammates as the Chiefs' nominee for the Ed Block Memorial Courage Award for 1984 in recognition of personal courage exemplified in pursuit of professional excellence on the football field . . . Started four years at Georgia Tech in a pro-style offense . . . Started 44 consecutive games after being redshirted in '78 and didn't miss an offensive snap his final two seasons . . . Earned honorable mention All-America recognition from AP as a senior and from the Sporting News his final two years . . . Played in the '83 Blue-Gray Game and was chosen to play in the Japan Bowl, but elected to complete some school work . . . Teamed with Ellis Gardner, a Chiefs sixth-round draft pick in '83 who played one year, to give Georgia Tech one of the outstanding tackle duos in the nation . . . Attended Bowman H.S. in Peachland, N.C., where he lettered three years in football and one year in wrestling . . . Majored in Industrial Management . . . Interests include fishing, hunting and camping . . . Has been a fishing and hunting guide in Georgia during the past two off-seasons . . . Full name: David Graham Lutz . . . Married this past off-season, wife Marsha.

A bruising nose tackle who had a major impact on the Chiefs improved defense as one of the NFL's top rookies in '84 . . . Stepped in immediately as the starting nose tackle after being the team's No. 1 draft choice last year, anchored the middle of the defense and was a big reason why the Chiefs mounted the best pass rush in franchise history . . . Forced the opposing offense to double-team him, freeing up ends Art Still and Mike Bell, both of whom had the best seasons of their careers . . . Is the final ingredient to a starting defensive line that could be the best three-man front in the league . . . All are former No. 1 draftees and led the team to a record 50 sacks last year . . . Was named the NFL Defensive Player of the Year by AP despite being limited the second half of the season by a leg injury suffered the seventh week of the campaign . . . Could have been a possible Pro Bowl selection had he stayed healthy all season . . . After a tremendous start to the season, he fractured the fibula in his left leg in the first quarter vs. San Diego . . . Came back quickly, missing just two complete games, but was in and out of the lineup the remainder of the season whenever the leg got hit . . . Finished the season with five sacks, the third-best total on the team, and 43 total tackles (29 unassisted) . . . Made his NFL debut at Pittsburgh, the town where he gained collegiate fame, and played opposite All-Pro center Mike Webster . . . Made his first NFL sack in that game . . . Best game as a rookie came in a Week Five victory over Cleveland, when he posted three sacks in a team-record 11-sack assault that tied for the second-best sack total in NFL history . . . Totaled a season-high six tackles in that game . . . Started all 14 games in which he played . . . In addition to his NFL Defensive Rookie of the Year honor, he was named to NFL All-Rookie teams by UPI, Pro Football Writers, Pro Football Weekly and Football Digest . . . Was the first defensive lineman taken in the '84 draft and the fifth player overall . . . An All-America performer at Pitt, where he totaled 203 tackles and 22½ sacks, plus an additional 28 tackles behind the line of scrimmage in his career . . . Played in 36 consecutive games for Pitt after earning the starting berth at right defensive tackle in 1981 as a sophomore . . . Despite being frequently double- and triple-teamed as a senior, he managed 72 tackles and seven sacks . . . Gained honorable mention All-America honors from AP and UPI and first-team All-East honors from AP . . . Named a first-team All-America by The Sporting News after his junior season in which he totaled 59 tackles and 10 sacks . . . Netted 72 tackles and 5½ sacks as a sophomore on Pitt's No. 1-ranked defense and No. 2-ranked team . . . Played in four bowl games as a collegian: Gator Bowl in '80, Sugar Bowl in '81, Cotton Bowl in '82 and Fiesta Bowl in '83 . . . Attended Marple Newtown H.S. in Newtown Square, Pa., where he was an All-State and All-District football player . . . Is coming off his best of nine NFL seasons and now ranks third on the Chiefs all-time receiving charts . . . Led the Chiefs with a career-high 62 receptions last year and notched a career-high 912 yards, second on the team next to Carlos Carson's 1,078 . . . His previous bests were 50 receptions in 1983 and 799 yards in 1980 . . . His 62 catches tied for the fifth-best single-season total in Chiefs history and ranked 14th in the AFC, while his 912 yards were the seventh-best ever and ranked 11th in the conference . . . Marks the third time of his career that he's led the Chiefs in receptions . . . Started all 16 games and caught four or more passes in 10 games and at least one pass in all but one contest (vs. N.Y. Jets) . . . Had two games with over 100 receiving yards and they were the second- and third-best games of his career . . . Caught eight passes for 148 yards the fourth week at Denver, the second-best figures of his career until he topped that with an eight-catch, 166-yard performance the 15th week vs. Seattle . . . The latter marked the best receiving game of '85 for the Chiefs and was the eighth-best yardage game in team annals . . . Was named AFC Offensive Player of the Week by the league office for that performance . . . His only better outing was a nine-catch, 176-yard effort vs. the Colts in 1980 . . . Averaged 3.9 catches and 57 yards per game in '84 . . . Caught four touchdown passes, including one in each of the last two games, to move his career total to 32 receiving TDs and 34 including rushing . . . Ranks third on the Chiefs all-time career receptions charts with 335, behind Otis Taylor (410) and Chris Burford (391) . . . Is also in third place on the team's career receiving yardage list with 5,321 yards, behind Taylor (7,306) and Burford (5,525) . . . Has compiled eight games of 100 or more receiving yards, which ranks third in team history behind Taylor (21) and Carson (11) . . . Entering his 10th NFL season, he has the most experience among Chiefs receivers and of his teammates, only OG Tom Condon (12th year) has been in the league longer . . . Has been the most consistent player in the Chiefs passing game since being drafted as the team's fourth pick in the third round of the '76 draft on a choice obtained from Houston in a deal involving Curly Culp . . . Has played in 126 of a possible 133 games and has started 117 of those . . . Stepped in as a starter immediately as a rookie and posted similar stats in each of his first four seasons, catching between 20-30 passes each year . . . Came into his own in an outstanding 1980 campaign, catching 47 passes for 799 yards and six touchdowns . . . Gained over 100 receiving yards in three games that year, which included his career-best nine catches for 176 yards in the season finale vs. Baltimore . . . The 176 yards still rank as the fifth-most receiving yardage in a single game in Chiefs history and he also snatched a career-long 75-yard pass in that contest . . . Followed with another strong season in '81, catching 38 passes for 620 yards in 12 games, missing the final four contests with a sprained knee . . . His importance to the Chiefs aerial attack became evident when the passing game curtailed considerably during those four contests . . . Was on a record-setting pace in '82, but the strike-shortened season hindered him from setting personal highs and possible Chiefs marks . . . Made 40 receptions for 549 yards in just nine games, an average of 4.4 catches and 61.0 yards per outing . . . Caught at least three passes in every game in '82 and ranked seventh in the AFC and 10th in the NFL with his 40 receptions . . . First season in a pass-oriented offense came in 1983 and he responded with 50 receptions (best of career at the time) for 788 yards (second-best at the time) and six touchdowns (tied for career best), despite missing three games . . . Missed one game with a broken nose and the final two games with a broken arm . . . Had two 100-yard receiving games, making eight catches for 115 yards vs. Dallas and seven grabs for 131 yards vs. the N.Y. Giants . . . Caught at least one pass in all but one game (at Miami) and that snapped a 22-game catch streak . . . Started nine of the 13 games he played that year . . . Capped his collegiate career at Missouri with a superb season, catching 44 passes for 945 yards and nine touchdowns . . . His first three years were less productive as the Tigers used the wishbone formation, but the offense opened up his final year and was highlighted by his Big Eight record 207-yard receiving performance vs. Oklahoma State . . . A tremendous athlete, he played varsity baseball and basketball as a freshman at Hillcrest H.S. in Dalzell, S.C., and both teams won state championships . . . Football career didn't begin until he was a junior in high school . . . Became an immediate blue-chipper in football that year, plus he hit .450 in baseball, long-jumped 24-10½ and ran a 46.0 quarter on a relay team . . . Majored in economics . . . Full name: Henry H. Marshall . . . Single.

A prize free agent acquisition for the Chiefs last year who begins his second year at the linebacker position . . . Has developed quickly at that position after spending his first two NFL seasons with the Seattle Seahawks and San Francisco 49ers as a defensive back . . . Signed as a free agent by the Chiefs in January of '84, put on some 20 pounds of body weight and became the starting left outside linebacker despite missing the entire preseason after suffering a training camp knee injury that required arthroscopic surgery . . . Missed the season opener and played only in spot situations the next three weeks before making his first NFL start the fifth week vs. Cleveland . . . Stole the show in that debut, compiling a career-high 14 total tackles, 2½ sacks (first of his career and helped Chiefs to team-record 11 sacks) and making his first NFL interception . . . Named the NFL Defensive Player of the Week by Sports Illustrated and Pro Football Weekly for his performance in that 10-6 Chiefs victory . . . Went on to record 72 tackles (48 solos), four sacks, two interceptions, five pass deflections and two forced fumbles during the season . . . Started nine games and played in 15 . . . Was replaced by Jeff Paine as a starter in the final three games and played sparingly in the final two because of a hip pointer . . . Also an aggressive kicking teams player who ranked third on the squad with 15 tackles . . . Began NFL career with Seattle as a free agent in '82 and played in all nine games as a reserve safety and kicking teams player his rookie year . . . Remained with the Seahawks through the first two games in '83 before being placed on waivers . . . Signed with the 49ers in November that year and played in the final four regular season contests . . . Was waived prior to San Francisco's first-round playoff game . . . Didn't play collegiate football, but was a four-year letterman in basketball at the University of San Francisco . . . Averaged 8.5 points, 3.2 rebounds and 2.5 assists per game as a guard and helped USF to the NCAA playoffs all four years . . . Attended Oakland (Calif.) H.S., where he was a football All-America . . . Sociology major . . . Interests include horseback riding, camping and traveling . . . Full name: Ken H. McAlister . . . Married, wife Joanna.

Has developed into a solid third-team quarterback after winning that position with the Chiefs as a rookie free agent in '84 . . . Beat out two other rookie free agents for that spot during the preseason and played in four regular season games . . . Most significant action came in a Chiefs loss at Seattle, when he played the entire fourth quarter and completed seven of 16 passes for 64 yards, no touchdowns and one interception . . . First NFL action came in the final 2:06 of the season opener at Pittsburgh and he was 0-for-1 passing . . . Played two downs in a win over Cleveland when Todd Blackledge was shaken up and Bill Kenney was on injured reserve . . . Quarterbacked the team for the final two series in the season finale at San Diego and attempted no passes . . . Played in three of the four preseason games while winning his job, completing eight of 12 passes for 108 yards . . . Spent entire collegiate career at Arizona State, which spanned five years because he was redshirted in 1981 . . . Backed up two current NFL quarterbacks his first two years (Mark Malone and Mike Pagel), playing in one game each season . . . Won the starting spot as a junior, but injured a knee in the season opener that required surgery and missed the remainder of the campaign . . . Played sparingly as a senior . . . Career totals were 28 pass attempts, 13 completions, 204 yards, one touchdown and three interceptions . . . Attended Ansonia (Conn.) H.S., where he lettered four times in both football and baseball . . . Was a prep All-America quarterback and was named state of Connecticut most valuable player as a senior . . . # STEPHONE PAIGE • 83

Wide Receiver Ht: 6-1 Wt: 180

How Acquired: Free Agent (1983)
College: Fresno State
NFL Experience: 3
Birthdate: October 15, 1981
Birthplace: Slidell, Louisiana
Residence: Fresno, California

Is an integral part of the Chiefs passing game as the team's third wide receiver . . . Complements starters Carlos Carson and Henry Marshall well with his elusive style and has become an uncanny third-down receiver since winning a roster spot as a free agent two years ago . . . Matched his rookie season total of 30 receptions last year and upped his receiving yardage from 528 to 541 . . . Also caught four touchdown passes to give him a two-year total of 10 . . . Used extensively in John Mackovic's multiple-receiver formations, he played consistently throughout the entire '84 campaign, catching at least one pass in all but one game . . . That was at Denver the fourth week, when he caught two passes in the end zone that were ruled out of bounds, breaking a streak of 15 consecutive games (dating back to '83) with a reception . . . Top yardage game last year was in the finale when he totaled 82 yards on just two catches . . . One was a 65-yard touchdown reception from Bill Kenney, which was the longest pass play of the year for the Chiefs and the team's longest since 1980 (J.T. Smith from Steve Fuller for 77 yards) . . . Had three receptions in three different games . . . Made his first official NFL start in a Week 14 win over Denver when the Chiefs opened offensively in a three wide receiver set . . . Possibly the most spectacular catch by a Chiefs receiver in '84 was his 26-yard touchdown in a one-point loss to the N.Y. Giants, when he leaped over a defender and stole the ball in the end zone . . . Also served as the primary kickoff return man in '84, compiling a 20.1 average on a team-high 27 returns . . . Has played in all 32 games during his two years . . . Posted one of the top rookie performances in the NFL in '83 . . . Was brought along slowly by Mackovic early in the campaign, but became an often-used commodity the second half of the season . . . Finished with 30 receptions for 528 yards, a team-leading 17.6 average per catch, and six touchdowns . . . Only two other rookie wide receivers in the NFL caught more passes than Paige's 30 that year — Chicago's Willie Gault and Detroit's Jeff Chadwick, both with 40 . . . The 30 catches were the most by a Chiefs rookie wide receiver since Chris Burford's 46 in the franchise's initial year of 1960 . . . First NFL reception came the fifth game vs. St. Louis, then he quickly came into his own . . . Finished the season strongly, making 17 receptions for 326 yards and five touchdowns in the final five games . . . Top game was at San Diego, when he put on a dazzling show with five catches for 84 yards and two touchdowns . . . Also made five receptions for 74 yards and one TD at Dallas . . . Caught at least one pass in each of the final 12 games . . . A superb showing in training camp in '83 earned Paige a roster spot as a rookie free agent, plus an injury to J.T. Smith opened another spot at that position . . . Enjoyed a good two-year collegiate career at Fresno State, but was overshadowed by WR Henry Ellard, who was drafted in the second round in '83 by the L.A. Rams . . . Transferred from Saddleback (Calif.) Junior College, where he spent his first two years . . . Attended Long Beach Poly H.S. in Calif., where he played basketball and baseball in addition to football . . . Majored in Radio-TV and would like to work as a television producer in the future . . . Full name: Stephone Paige . . . Married, wife Paula, son born this past off-season, named Stephone II.

How Acquired: Draft (No. 7 - 1984)
College: Temple
NFL Experience: 2
Birthdate: January 16, 1962
Birthplace: Camden, New Jersey
Residence: Camden, New Jersey

Put together one of the most incredible rookie success stories in the franchise's history last year . . . A seventh-round draft choice by the Chiefs in '84, he immediately earned the starting right cornerback spot and went on to intercept six passes, make 98 tackles and establish himself as one of the team's most physical players . . . Was tested often by opposing quarterbacks as a rookie at a vulnerable position, but time and time again responded with excellent coverage and has gained great respect as he enters his second NFL season . . . Showed his competitive nature from the start of training camp and earned the starting RCB job by the regular season opener . . . Had a rocky beginning, having several long plays made against him by Pittsburgh wide receivers in the opener . . . Proved his determination a week later by turning in a sterling performance at Cincinnati, making 10 tackles, forcing a fumble to set up a field goal and recovering a fumble deep in KC territory in the last minute of the game to preserve a 27-22 Chiefs victory . . . From then on, he was a key performer on the vastly-improved defense and was voted winner of the Mack Lee Hill award, which is decided by Chiefs veterans and given to the outstanding rookie who best exemplifies the play and spirit of the late Hill . . . His six interceptions tied him for third in Chiefs history for thefts by a rookie, behind Bobby Hunt's eight in 1962, Eric Harris' seven in 1980 and matching David Webster's six in 1960 . . . Ranked second to Deron Cherry's seven interceptions last year and tied for fifth in the AFC and for 11th in the entire NFL . . . First NFL interception came in the home opener against the L.A. Raiders and he returned it 71 yards for a touchdown, giving the Chiefs a 10-0 lead in a game they lost 22-20 . . . It was the longest interception return by a Chiefs player since 1977 . . . His other thefts came in home games against Cleveland, N.Y. Jets, Tampa Bay, and Seattle and a road game at the N.Y. Giants . . . His 98 total tackles were the most by a Chiefs rookie since Gary Spani (144) and Art Still (120) in 1978 . . . Of his 98 tackles, which ranked fourth on the team, 77 were unassisted . . . Top tackling games were 10 vs. Cincinnati and San Diego and nine solos at the L.A. Raiders . . . Also an aggressive kicking teams player, making 11 tackles . . . At Temple, he recorded 13 career interceptions and 249 tackles in four years . . . Picked off three passes and was credited with 70 tackles as a senior . . . Was chosen to play in the East-West Shrine Game and the Senior Bowl . . . Best statistical year was as a junior, when he made five interceptions in seven games, missing the final four games with a foot injury . . . Attended Paulsboro H.S. in New Jersey, earning All-State, All-Conference and All-Area honors as a linebacker and running back . . . Led Paulsboro to the state championship as a senior . . . Also competed in basketball and wrestling . . . Business major . . . Full name: Kevin Lesley Ross . . . Single.

Is the starting center on a Chiefs offensive line that has improved dramatically in his two seasons with the team . . . Was acquired in a trade with the San Diego Chargers during the 1983 training camp and immediately stepped in as the starter . . . The year before he joined the Chiefs, the line had allowed a league-worst average of one sack every 7.6 pass plays, that improved to a 1:15 ratio in his first season and to a team-record 1:19 last year . . . The Chiefs 33 sacks allowed (in 626 pass plays) were the fourth-fewest in the NFL last year . . . Started all 16 games in '84 despite a nagging back injury the second half of the season . . . Started 15 games in '83, with his only miss coming at San Diego the next to last game of the season after finally giving way to a sprained right ankle he sustained two weeks earlier . . . The '83 trade came after the retirement of longtime center Jack Rudnay at the end of the '82 season and Rush has continued the Chiefs tradition of outstanding players at that position . . . Was playing behind All-Pro center Don Macek at San Diego at the time of the trade . . . Was the Chargers first-round pick in the 1977 draft, the first center selected and the 24th player overall . . . Played in all 14 games his first season and was named to the NFL's All-Rookie Team . . . Suffered a knee injury in a preseason scrimmage in '78 and spent the entire season on injured reserve . . . Became San Diego's starting center in '79 for the final 10 regular season games (played in all 16) and one playoff contest when Macek had a pinched nerve in his neck . . . Started one game each in '80 and '81, while playing in 15 and 16 games, respectively . . . Also played in two playoff games both years . . . Played in all nine games in '82, plus two playoff contests . . . Career totals with Chargers and Chiefs are 101 games and 43 starts . . . Enters his fifth NFL season as the third-leading tight end in Chiefs history with 70 receptions . . . Only Fred Arbanas (198) and Walter White (163) have caught more passes than Scott among players at that position in the franchise's 25 years . . . Set a career high last year in receiving yards with 253, while his 28 receptions were one shy of his '83 career-best total . . . Started 12 games in '84 and played in 15 . . . Missed the Tampa Bay game due to bronchitis and it was the first missed game of his NFL career, breaking a string of 49 consecutive games and 25 straight starts . . . Didn't start the final three games of the season . . . Best yardage game of his career came at Denver, when he totaled 48 yards on five receptions . . . Caught a career-long 27-yard pass in a 31-13 win over San Diego and compiled 47 yards in that game on three catches . . . Caught three touchdown passes to move his career total to 11 . . . Has started 35 of the 56 games he's played since becoming the Chiefs No. 1 draft choice in 1981 . . . Came to Kansas City with pressure to produce quickly, because the team had problems at that position . . . A fractured finger kept him from playing in any preseason games and he went on to have a mediocre rookie campaign . . . Played in all 16 games, started three, and made five receptions for 72 yards and one touchdown . . . Biggest day as a rookie was in his first NFL start, when he caught three passes for 44 yards at New England . . . Started four of the nine games in '82, making eight receptions for 49 yards and one TD . . . Best game that year was

vs. the Chargers, when he caught four passes for 24 yards . . . His '83 statistics more than doubled the totals of his first two years . . . Made a career-high 29 receptions for 247 yards and six touchdowns while starting all 16 games on the Chiefs third-ranked passing offense . . . His six TDs were the third-most by a Chiefs tight end, next to Arbanas' eight in 1964 and White's seven in 1976 . . . Top effort was in a Monday night game vs. San Diego, when he caught a career-high seven passes for 32 yards . . . Finished collegiate career at South Carolina as the school's 10th-leading career receiver with 63 receptions for 787 yards and seven touchdowns . . . Was an AP honorable mention All-America honoree as a senior . . . Was a key blocker in South Carolina's system which enabled teammate George Rogers to win the Heisman trophy in 1980 . . . Played in a two tight end offense much of his collegiate career . . . First tight end chosen and 14th player overall in the '81 draft . . . Enjoys classical music and traveling . . . Majored in health education . . . Is a substitute teacher in South Carolina during the off-season . . . Full name: Willie Louis Scott, Jr. . . . Single.

A former All-Pro punt returner who finished his seventh NFL season as the Chiefs leading punt and kickoff return man and served as the team's fifth wide receiver . . . Compiled an 8.5 punt return average on 39 attempts in '84, ranking eighth in the AFC and 14th in the NFL . . . Also returned kickoffs for the first full season of his pro career, finishing with a 20.6 average on 19 runbacks . . . Caught passes in just three games last year (eight receptions for 69 yards), but was the team's leading receiver at Seattle with five catches for 49 yards . . . Best punt return day of '84 was vs. Houston, when he returned six for 64 yards, including a season-long 27-yarder . . . All of those figures were his best single-game totals since the 10th game of '81 . . . Best kickoff return day as a pro was four for 117 yards including a 39-yarder at the N.Y. Giants . . . Played in 15 games in '84, missing the finale with a separated shoulder . . . Is the top punt returner in franchise history and ranks among the top receivers, with the bulk of his statistics coming during the three-year span of 1979, '80 and '81 . . . Most of his fame has come as a punt returner, as he ranks fourth in NFL history with 2,322 yards, behind Rick Upchurch (3,008), Billy Johnson (2,954) and Mike Fuller (2,660) and second among active players behind Johnson . . . Also ranks fourth among active returners in career average (10.6) and 23rd overall . . . His 220 returns and 2,322 yards with the Chiefs both rank first on the club's career punt returning charts . . . Holds the top four spots in the Chiefs annals for number of single-season punt returns and the top three places for punt return yardage . . . Also owns the longest punt return in franchise history, an 88-yarder vs. the Raiders in '79, and he compiled the most single-game yardage that day with 141 yards . . . Began his assault on the Chiefs record books in

'79, when he returned 58 punts for 612 yards . . . Both figures were tops on the club's all-time charts and were the best in the AFC that year, while his 10.6 average ranked second in the conference . . . Became an All-Pro in 1980 when he led the NFL in punt returning with a 14.5 average . . . His 40 returns and 581 yards boosted him into first as the Chiefs all-time punt returner in just his second full year with the team . . . In '81, he led the AFC in punt returns and yards with 50 for 528 and was named an alternate to the AFC Pro Bowl squad . . . Was the only player to handle a punt return for the Chiefs from 1979-81 . . . Returned punts in just one game in '82 because of injuries, bringing back three for 26 yards vs. the L.A. Rams . . . Ranked ninth in the AFC in '83 by compiling an 8.1 average on 26 returns . . . As a receiver, he started 13 games during his first full year of '79 . . . Made 33 receptions, third-most on the team and first among wide receivers, for 444 yards . . . In 1980, he was the Chiefs second-leading receiver with 46 catches, one behind Marshall, for 655 yards while starting all 16 games . . . Best receiving year was '81, when he led the Chiefs with 63 receptions (fourth-most in Chiefs history) for 852 yards, snatching at least one pass in every game . . . Best single game of his career came vs. San Diego that year when he grabbed nine passes for 140 yards . . . Started the first 15 games in '81 until a rib injury forced him to miss part of the season finale . . . Played in just five games, starting three, in '82 and caught 10 passes for 168 yards . . . Top game was a six-catch, 101-yard performance at New Orleans in the only contest he was completely healthy . . . Pulled hamstring early in season and bruised sciatic nerve later in campaign . . . Played in nine games (started one) in '83, missing the first six contests due to a preseason knee injury, and made just seven catches for 85 yards . . . Signed with the Chiefs as a free agent in mid-1978 after being released by Washington . . . Had signed with the Redskins as a free agent and played six games in '78 before joining the Chiefs and playing in six more games . . . Has three career 100-yard-plus receiving games (plus a 99-yard day) and three punt returning efforts over 100 yards . . . Wasn't drafted after a four-year collegiate career at North Texas State . . . Recreation major . . . Full name: John Thomas Smith . . . Married, wife Sandra.

Has been the Chiefs leading tackler since entering the NFL and is recognized as one of the better inside linebackers in the league . . . Put together the fifth 100-plus tackle season of his career in '84, totaling 107 stops (68 solos) . . . Compiled those figures, which ranked third on the team, despite missing two full games and parts of three others due to injuries . . . Missed the Cincinnati game after suffering a strained knee in the opener and missed the Seattle game Week 15 after a freak accident at home the night before the game . . . Started all 14 games he played . . . Made at least six tackles in every full game he played last year and had four games of 10 or more tackles, including a season-high 14 at the N.Y. Jets . . . His only sack of the year came in a 10-6 win over Cleveland and helped the team to a record 11-sack afternoon . . . Was voted as the second alternate at ILB for the AFC Pro Bowl team . . . Few players in the NFL have matched his productivity during his seven seasons, as he has averaged 9.2 tackles per game played . . . Is just 136 total tackles away from the rarely-attained 1,000-tackle plateau . . . Impressive career totals include 94 games, 92 starts, 864 total tackles (584 solos), 8½ sacks and nine fumble recoveries . . . During his first four pro campaigns, he averaged just over 150 tackles per season and was the Chiefs leader each year . . . Stepped in as a starter immediately as a rookie in '78, compiling 144 tackles and recovering a fumble (plus a PAT block) . . . Registered the most tackles of his career in '79 with 157, which included a career-high 115 solo stops . . . His 1980 totals included 149 tackles, a team-leading four fumble recoveries and the only interception of his career, which he returned 47 yards for a touchdown in a one-point win over Houston . . . In 1981, he was an UPI All-AFC honorable mention selection after a superb year in which he recorded 153 tackles . . . Made at least six tackles in every game that year and contributed 10 or more stops seven times, including a 16-tackle effort in a season-opening win at Pittsburgh . . . Iced a come-from-behind victory over the Raiders with a 91-yard fumble return for a touchdown in the final minute . . . Played in eight of the nine games in '82, missing the season finale due to a neck injury, breaking a 60-game consecutive start string . . . Finished second to Art Still with 64 tackles and totaled at least six tackles in each game for the second straight season . . . First major injury of his pro career came in the final preseason game of '83, when he suffered strained knee ligaments and spent the first six regular season contests on injured reserve . . . Played in the final 10 games and started the final nine . . . Still managed 90 total tackles to rank fourth on the team and made a career-high three sacks . . . Also credited with a fumble recovery and a blocked PAT . . . Was a three-time All-Big Eight linebacker at Kansas State and was named to the conference all-decade team in 1979 . . . Amassed 545 tackles in four varsity seasons and became the Wildcats' only consensus All-America . . . Majored in personal management . . . Attended Manhattan (Kan.) H.S. . . . Has started a "Spaniacs" program, which benefits wheelchair children . . . Full name: Gary L. Spani . . . Single.

Has been voted to the AFC Pro Bowl team four of the last five years while becoming one of the most dominating defensive players of this decade . . . Returned to All-Pro form last year after a one-year absence, once again becoming the cornerstone of a defensive unit that held the Chiefs together throughout the '84 season . . . Led the Chiefs in tackles and sacks and was voted by his teammates as the team's MVP for '84 . . . His 107 solo tackles tied a career best, set previously in 1980, and his 131 total stops were the second-most of his career, behind his '80 total of 140 . . . His 14½ sacks tied the Chiefs record he set in 1980 and tied him for fourth in the AFC and for sixth in the NFL last year . . . Spearheaded a fierce pass rush that set a team record of 50 sacks, bettering the old mark of 48 set during the Super Bowl Championship season of 1969 . . . Was in on at least one sack in all but five games in '84 and made two sacks on five different occasions . . . Made 11 or more tackles in four games, highlighted by a 14-tackle effort vs. Houston that included 12 solo stops and a 13-tackle performance two weeks later vs. the N.Y. Giants that included 11 unassisted stops . . . Made at least four tackles in every game . . . Also led the team with five forced fumbles and he recovered one . . . Prior to '84, he had been voted to the AFC Pro Bowl team in 1980, '81 and '82 before an injury-riddled '83 season halted his streak . . . Added 25-30 pounds to his 6-7 frame during that off-season and remained healthy the entire '84 campaign, starting all 16 games . . . Joined Mark Gastineau and Howie Long as the AFC Pro Bowl defensive ends . . . Sparked the AFC to a 22-14 victory by scooping up a fumble and returning it 83 yards for a touchdown in the fourth quarter, with the AFC trailing at the time, 14-12 . . . Marked the only TD on a fumble recovery in Pro Bowl history and was the longest fumble return in the game's existence . . . Is the first Chiefs player to win the team's MVP award more than once (1980 and '84) . . . Surpassed the 500-solo-tackle plateau vs. Houston last year and the 50-career-sack landmark the following week vs. the L.A. Raiders . . . Career totals are 99 games, 96 starts, 760 total tackles, 536 solo tackles, 52½ sacks and seven fumble recoveries (one each season) . . . Teams with DE Mike Bell and NT Bill Maas, all former No. 1 draft picks, for possibly the best defensive line in the NFL . . . The Chiefs built their defense around Still after selecting him in the first round in '78, the second player taken in the entire draft behind Earl Campbell . . . Stepped in immediately as the starting left defensive end and finished his first three seasons as the club leader in sacks and second to LB Gary Spani in tackles while starting every game . . . As a rookie, he recorded 120 tackles and 6½ sacks and was named to the UPI all-rookie team . . . In '79, he registered 137 tackles and 8½ sacks . . . Posted an incredible 20 tackles in the season finale that year vs. Tampa Bay and was named to the Sports Illustrated all-pro squad . . . Compiled career highs in all defensive statistics in '80 and earned his first Pro Bowl berth . . . Collected 140 tackles, including a team-leading 107 solo stops, and 14½ sacks . . . In addition to starting the Pro Bowl Game, he was selected to practically every all-pro team, including Football Digest, Pro Football Writers Assn., Newspaper Enterprise Ass., Sports Illustrated, The Sporting News and the UPI all-AFC team . . . In 1981, he was chosen for the Pro Bowl despite missing five games during mid-season after straining ligaments in his right knee vs. San Diego . . . Concluded the season with 68 tackles and two sacks . . . Was voted to his third consecutive Pro Bowl in 1982, after leading the Chiefs with 68 tackles, 3½ sacks, and 13 QB pressures while starting all nine games . . . Also was named to the all-AFC second team by UPI . . . In '83, he was hampered by a contusion to his left ankle during the second half of the season, but still compiled 96 tackles, third on the squad, and three sacks . . . Played in 15 games and started 12, marking the first time in his pro career he played in a game without starting . . . Was the first Chiefs defensive lineman to be chosen to the Pro Bowl since Buck Buchanan in 1972 . . . Also was the highest-drafted Chiefs defensive lineman since Buchanan in '63 . . . Was a four-year starter at Kentucky, where he was a consensus All-America his senior season and was named the Southeastern Conference player of the year by UPI . . . Led the Wildcats to a 10-1 record, but they couldn't play in a bowl game because of a NCAA probation . . . Played in the East-West Shrine Game, Hula Bowl and Japan Bowl . . . Running Back Ht: 6-3½ Wt: 229

Round: 1

College: North Carolina

Birthdate: December 19, 1962

Birthplace: Kannapolis, North Carolina

Residence: Kannapolis, North Carolina

The premier running back in the 1985 draft, possessing both the size and speed to make him a powerful NFL halfback . . . Is the first running back to be the Chiefs No. 1 draft pick since 1974 (Woody Green) and just the fifth back in franchise history to be the Chiefs first choice . . . 15th pick overall in '85 . . . Led the Atlantic Coast Conference in rushing the past two years, gaining over 1,000 yards both seasons and averaging 107 yards per game in those 22 contests . . . Named the ACC Player of the Year as a senior by AP . . . A second-team All-America selection by UPI and a third-team choice by AP . . . His 1,247 rushing yards in '84 ranked eighth nationally among NCAA rushers and was the fourth-highest single-season total in North Carolina history . . . Would have finished higher among the national rushing leaders, but sprained an ankle in practice before the last game of the year and gained just 12 yards on five carries in that contest . . . Averaged 113.4 yards per game as a senior and 5.2 yards per carry . . . Rambled for a career-high 209 yards against Memphis State on 39 carries . . . Other top performances were 162 yards at Boston College, 141 against Wake Forest and 133 at Clemson . . . Longest run was a 79-yard touchdown gallop at Boston College . . . Concluded his senior season by playing in the Hula Bowl and the Japan Bowl and was named the East's top offensive player in the latter all-star game . . . Finished career as the fifth-leading rusher in North Carolina history with 3,074 yards on 604 carries and a 5.1 average per rush . . . Ranks behind Amos Lawrence, Mike Voight, Kelvin Bryant and Don McCauley on the Tar Heel charts . . . Scored 22 touchdowns in his career, including six as a senior, eight as a junior and seven his sophomore season . . . Also a good receiver out of the backfield, catching 25 passes last year for 254 yards . . . That brought his career receiving total to 46 receptions for 495 yards . . . As a junior, his ACC-leading 1,107 yards came despite the fact he split time at tailback with Tyrone Anthony . . . Ranked 17th nationally that year . . . His yardage came on 200 carries, giving him a 5.5 average per rush . . . Was named All-ACC and third-team All-America (The Football News) as a junior . . . Started Carolina's first five games and played behind Anthony in the final six . . . Put together seven 100-yard-plus games, topped by a 141-yard performance against William & Mary . . . Longest run of that season was a 52-yard sprint at Georgia Tech . . . Backed up Bryant as a sophomore, finishing as North Carolina's third-leading rusher with 576 yards on 126 carries . . . Started three games when Bryant was injured . . . Biggest game was a 201-yard effort against Vanderbilt after Bryant was injured early in the game . . . Won MVP honors in the Sun Bowl his sophomore season, replacing the injured Bryant and rushing for 119 yards, all in the second half, sparking the Tar Heels to a come-from-behind 26-10 victory over Texas . . . It was his second straight starring bowl performance, as he won co-MVP honors in the 1981 Gator Bowl, rushing for 144 yards on 27 carries against Arkansas . . . First came into prominence late in his freshman season after injuries sidelined Bryant and Anthony . . . A third-string quarterback at the time, he shifted to tailback for a big game at Maryland and, despite just four days of practice, gained 94 yards on 26 carries . . . # CHIEFS CHAMPIONSHIP REVIEW

1962 AFL CHAMPIONSHIP GAME DALLAS at HOUSTON December 23, 1962

A contest that moved the infant American Football League into the national consciousness proved to be the first of three AFL titles for Hank Stram's Texans/Chiefs.

Following second place finishes in each of the league's first two seasons, the Texans ran away with the AFL West championship in 1962. Dallas finished 11-3, a full four games in front, and was matched with the Houston Oilers, also 11-3, who had won the AFL title in 1960 and '61 over the Los Angeles, then San Diego Chargers.

The Texans, paced by a pair of touchdowns from Abner Haynes, took a 17-0 halftime advantage. Haynes scored first on a 28-yard pass from Len Dawson and then on a two-yard run after Tommy Brooker had given Dallas a 3-0 first-quarter advantage with a 16-yard field goal.

But the momentum quickly shifted to the Oilers in the second half. George Blanda, then a "young" 35-year-old, passed 15 yards to Willard Dewveall for a touchdown and kicked a 31-yard field goal before Charley Tolar burst over from the one to tie the game at 17-17 in the fourth quarter.

The two teams then went into the first sudden death overtime in AFL annals. The Texans won the toss and Stram elected to kick off, maintaining his defense could hold the Oilers long enough for Dawson to get the ball in good field position. Herein came the famous "kick to the clock" episode in which Texans captain Haynes inadvertently elected for his team to kick into the wind instead of having it as the consolation for not receiving the football.

Neither club mounted a serious challenge in the early stages of overtime, but as the fifth quarter was drawing to a close, Dallas defensive end Bill Hull intercepted a Blanda pass and returned to midfield. Dawson then passed to Jack Spikes for 10 yards. Spikes, the game's most valuable player, ran for 19 and the Texans were in field goal range. At the 2:54 mark of the sixth quarter, Brooker kicked a 25-yard field goal to give the Texans a 20-17 victory and the American Football League championship. The game lasted 77 minutes and 54 seconds and would be the longest in pro football history until the Chiefs and Miami Dolphins played over 82 minutes nearly a decade later in 1971.

1966 AFL CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

KANSAS CITY at BUFFALO

January 1, 1967

With a berth in Super Bowl I as the prize, the Chiefs visited ancient War Memorial Stadium for a New Year's Day clash with the defending AFL champion Buffalo Bills.

The game, played in frigid, subzero temperatures, produced its first break on the opening kickoff. Jerrel Wilson recovered a Bills fumble on the Buffalo 31-yard line. Three plays later, Len Dawson passed 29 yards to Fred Arbanas for the first touchdown and a 7-0 Kansas City lead.

Buffalo, though, tied the game near the end of the opening period when Jack Kemp hit Elbert Dubenion on a 69-yard pass play. Few thought it would be the Bills final score of the day.

The Chiefs defense stiffened and Dawson led the offense to 10 second-quarter points. Otis Taylor caught a 29-yard touchdown pass and Mike Mercer added a 32-yard field goal, aided by a 72-yard pass interception by Johnny Robinson.

Mike Garrett then applied the coup de grace for the Chiefs by scoring on runs of one and 18 yards. Kansas City won its second AFL title in four years and awaited the Green Bay Packers in Super Bowl I.

SUPER BOWL I

KANSAS CITY vs GREEN BAY

January 15, 1967

Representing themselves and the American Football League in the first championship match with the National Football League, the Chiefs played well for one half before bowing to the supremacy of the Green Bay Packers.

Vince Lombardi's Packers, one of the great pro football teams of all time, won Super Bowl I by a 35-10 score. But the Packers held a slim 14-10 advantage at the half before the game turned on one play in the third quarter.

Green Bay opened the scoring when Bart Starr passed 37 yards to Max McGee, McGee making a remarkable one-handed catch for the touchdown. Len Dawson tied the game for the Chiefs when he passed to Curtis McClinton for a second period touchdown. The Packers then went back on top, 14-7, before Mike Mercer kicked a 31-yard field goal just before the half ended.

The Chiefs momentum carried over into the third quarter as Kansas City moved to a first down on its initial possession. But then the game's key play, one that doomed the underdog Chiefs, unfolded when Willie Wood intercepted a Dawson pass intended for Fred Arbanas at midfield. Wood returned all the way to the Chiefs 5-yard line, where Elijah Pitts ran for a third Green Bay touchdown and an insurmountable 21-10 lead.

1969 AFL CHAMPIONSHIP GAME KANSAS CITY at OAKLAND January 4, 1970

On the day the American Football League played the final game of its 10-year history, the Kansas City Chiefs became the only three-time AFL champion. The Chiefs, through a curious playoff system, played their Western Division rivals, the Oakland Raiders, for the league's last title. Oakland, which had won the AFL West and held a pair of regular season wins over the Chiefs, went down to a 17-7 defeat, the first of several AFL/AFC title game defeats that have bedeviled the Raiders during the past decade.

The contest, unlike other Raiders-Chiefs matchups, was marked by turnovers. The two clubs managed one first-half touchdown apiece, Oakland's on a three-yard run by Charlie Smith, Kansas City responding with a one-yard plunge by Wendell Hayes after Len Dawson had hit on passes of 14 yards to Otis Taylor and 41 yards to Frank Pitts.

In the third quarter, George Blanda twice missed field goal attempts that would have moved Oakland in front. Midway through the period, Kansas City mounted a drive from its own 2-yard line, the field position a result of a fumble which luckily was recovered before it bounded into the end zone. Dawson and Taylor pulled Kansas City out of the hole with a 35-yard pass and run play. Robert Holmes added 23 more on a flare pass in the left flat and then scored the go-ahead touchdown five plays later.

At this point, the game became a defensive struggle. Led by defensive charges from the entire front four of Aaron Brown, Buck Buchanan, Curley Culp and Jerry Mays, the Chiefs continually harassed Raiders quarterback Daryle Lamonica. But the turnovers which would plague both teams were only beginning.

In the fourth quarter, turnovers gave Oakland the football three times in Kansas City territory. Three times the Chiefs responded with interceptions, one each by Jim Marsalis, Jim Kearney and Emmitt Thomas. Thomas' steal was his second of the day and covered 62 yards to the Oakland 18-yard line. Jan Stenerud's field goal provided a 17-7 lead and a return to the Super Bowl.

SUPER BOWL IV KANSAS CITY vs MINNESOTA January 11, 1970

Kansas City's finest sports hour concluded at 5:20 in the afternoon of Sunday, January 11, 1970, when the Chiefs defeated the Minnesota Vikings, 23-7, for the world championship of pro football.

The Chiefs, who finished 11-3 on the season and defeated the New York Jets and Oakland in the playoffs, closed out their first decade as the outstanding team in the American Football League which, with Super Bowl IV, came to an end. Beginning in 1970, the two leagues merged, with the AFL becoming the American Football Conference of the NFL.

Minnesota, a prohibitive favorite, was 12-2 during the regular season and at one point had won 12 games in succession.

The Chiefs took an early lead when Jan Stenerud kicked a 48-yard first quarter field goal. Stenerud's kick remains a Super Bowl record. He then followed with field goals of 32 and 25 yards for a 9-0 lead.

Kansas City received the first break in the game when the Vikings Charlie West fumbled a kickoff and Remi Prudhomme recovered at the Minnesota 19-yard line. After an eight-yard loss, Len Dawson handed off to Wendell Hayes, who rambled for 13 yards up the middle on a draw play. A 10-yard pass to Otis Taylor gave the Chiefs a first down at the 4. Three plays later Mike Garrett burst off-tackle for five yards and a touchdown. The Chiefs held a 16-0 halftime lead, stunning the Vikings and a nationwide television audience.

Minnesota mounted a mild third-quarter comeback when Dave Osborn scored from four yards out to cut the margin to 16-7. But any hopes the Vikings had of getting closer were dashed by Otis Taylor, who lived up to his big-play reputation repeatedly through that season.

Dawson hit Taylor on a short hitch pattern, but when Earsell Mackbee missed the initial tackle, Taylor was loose down the right sideline, highstepping his way to a 46-yard touchdown. After three quarters, the Chiefs again held a 16-point lead.

As was so often the case in 1969, the defense came to the fore. Minnesota had the ball three times in the final period and, as in the Oakland game the previous week, the Chiefs snuffed out all three chances with interceptions. Middle linebacker Willie Lanier picked off a Joe Kapp pass to halt a rally at the Chiefs 34-yard line. Later on, Johnny Robinson, playing with what turned out to be three broken ribs, grabbed another errant Kapp throw. In the game's closing minutes, Emmitt Thomas intercepted his third pass of the playoffs. The Chiefs then ran out the clock to capture the AFL's second consecutive Super Bowl triumph.

The American Football League's 10-year history had come to an end with the Kansas City Chiefs its most successful team. The 1970s would usher in a new era for the Chiefs, an era that would produce noted changes as the club sought to regain its position as world champion.

CHIEFS RADIO NETWORK

With the start of the 1985 NFL season, the Kansas City Chiefs begin a new five-year radio agreement with 81/KCMO in Kansas City. KCMO has been the Chiefs flagship station for play-by-play coverage ever since the Chiefs moved to the midwest in 1963. KCMO will also handle the Chiefs radio network, which includes more than 60 stations covering Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa. Kevin Harlan is the new play-by-play voice of the Chiefs this season, replacing Wayne Larrivee, who covered the Chiefs for the past seven seasons. Joining Harlan in the radio booth will be former Chiefs quarterback Len Dawson and veteran broadcaster Bill Grigsby as commentary and color announcers. The Chiefs broadcasts include a three-hour, award-winning pre-game show called Chiefs Sunday and the game broadcasts will be followed by three post-game shows, including a locker room interview show. KCMO is owned by Summit Broadcasting.

CHIEFS HALL OF FAME

In tribute to those who have made outstanding contributions to the success of the Kansas City Chiefs Football Club, the team has established a Hall of Fame. New inductees are selected by a three-man committee, representing the Chiefs Booster Club, the area media and the Chiefs organization. The award is presented annually at the "101 Banquet."

PRO FOOTBALL HALL OF FAME

The highest honor a pro football personality can receive is to be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame. Two of the people who have contributed most to the Kansas City Chiefs organization, owner Lamar Hunt and linebacker Bobby Bell, have been so recognized.

Hunt, who founded the American Football League in 1960 with his Dallas Texans franchise, became the first AFLer to be voted into the Hall in 1972. Described during his induction ceremonies as the "architect, designer and builder of an impossible dream," Hunt has been and still is considered one of the most prominent figures in professional football. He serves as the president of the American Football Conference and beginning in 1984, the conference championship game trophy will carry his name.

Bell became the first Chiefs player to be enshrined in the Hall when he was chosen with the class of 1983. Possibly the best outside linebacker to ever play the game, Bell was a superb athlete and actually began his pro career at defensive end because the Chiefs needed help at that position when he was drafted in the seventh round in 1963. By the time he retired in '74, Bell had earned All-AFL or All-AFC designation for eight consecutive years. During that span, he starred on two AFL Championship teams, played in Super Bowls I and IV, and was named to the all-decade team in '69.

MACK LEE HILL AWARD

Each year since 1966, the Chiefs veteran players have selected a recipient for the Mack Lee Hill Award. It is a tribute to the late Mack Lee Hill, an outstanding running back who played for the Chiefs in 1964 and 1965. He was described as a man who played as much with his heart as he did with his driving legs in the early days of the American Football League.

In memory and tribute to Hill, the award is presented annually to the Chiefs rookie, who, as the inscription on the trophy reads — "best exemplifies the spirit of the late Mack Lee Hill

... the man with the giant heart and quiet way." In selecting the recipient, the Chiefs veterans look for a first-year player who has displayed the spirit and attitude of Mack Lee Hill.

The 1984 winner of the award was cornerback Kevin Ross. A seventh round draft choice out of Temple, Ross immediately showed his competitive nature in training camp and won the starting job at right corner. He attacked the vulnerable position with vigor and determination while playing against some of the NFL's best wide receivers. Starting all 16 games, he finished the season with six interceptions to rank among the league leaders. Ross established himself as one of the most physical players on the Chiefs squad and was a key figure in the great improvement of the defense in '84.

CHIEFS CLUB

DR. JERRY COOK

The Chiefs Club is the official booster organization for the Kansas City Chiefs and is active in ticket drives, special events, charter trips to away games and numerous civic and charitable functions in the greater Kansas City area.

Instrumental in a big civic push that solidified the Chiefs franchise in Kansas City in the early sixties, the Chiefs Club continues to sponsor several civic functions each year.

Major among the events are Kansas City's prestigious "101 Banquet," an annual salute to the outstanding players and coaches in the AFC and NFC, and the annual Chiefs Club Kickoff Luncheon.

In addition to those major functions and periodic in-season dinners with Chiefs coaches and players, the booster club participates in two collegiate scholarships for area youths — the Len Dawson Scholarship and the Bruce Rice Scholarship.
